2 Girls For Peace Work

Washington (AP) — Two young women said Wednesday they were forced to resign as file clerks for the FBI when they refused to give up off-hours volunteer work for a peace group.

Philip J. Hirschkop, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said a third girl has been given an ultimatum but her status is unclear.

Meanwhile, Hirschkop said, the ACLU will go ahead with a lawsuit seeking to restore Miss Linda Janca, 21, and Miss Christine Hoopes, 18, to their jobs.

The blonde Miss Janca and red-haired Miss Hoopes told their story at a news conference in the downtown headquarters of the National Peace Action Coalition where they had spent two or three nights a week for the past two months stuffing envelopes in preparation for massive antiwar demonstrations here and in San Francisco.

The girls said they were called in last Wednesday to the office of J. Allison Conely, an official of the FBI's Identification Division where Miss Janca, of Biloxi, Miss., has worked since July 1968 and where Miss Hoopes of Woodbridge, Va., has worked since Oct. 5.

The girls, who said they held nonsensitive FBI jobs, reported they were questioned about their activities with NPAC and their views on the war.

The girls said they were summoned into Conely's office again on Friday and told to quit their work with the peace group or quit the FBI. They said Conely informed them FBI regulations forbid political activities and indicated that he believes peace groups are working against the administration.

"I really don't see working for peace as political activity," Miss Janca told reporters.

"I don't think it is fair to ask my resignation because I came here to do what I think was right," said Miss Hoopes.

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, putting his second-term hopes generally on the line, announced Wednesday night an only slight increase in monthly troop withdrawals from South Vietnam for a seven-month period.

At the same time, Nixon said in an address prepared for a nationwide television-radio audience:

"I can assure you tonight with confidence that American involvement in this war is coming to an end."

The chief executive said it is his intention to withdraw between May and Dec. 1 an additional 100,000 American troops from South Vietnam — a monthly average of barely over 14,000 as compared with the average of 12,500 in effect for the past year.

This would reduce the troop level to about 184,000.

Nothing Dramatic

Perhaps the most remarkable aspect of Nixon's speech was the fact that, it seemed clear, he was not bowing to pressures from many sides to come up with something dramatic that would promise an early end to American involvement in the Vietnam war.

Instead he said: "In my campaign for the presidency, I pledged to end American involvement in this war. I am keeping that pledge. You should hold me accountable if I fail."

He claimed a success for his disputed decision to invade enemy bases in Cambodia, and said the equally controversial Laotian incursion was "even more damaging to the capability of the North Vietnamese to sustain major offensives in South Vietnam."

Calley Case

Then he went on to make an indirect reference to the court-martial conviction of Army Lt. William Calley Jr. on charges of mass murder at My Lai. Saying he spoke as commander in chief, Nixon said:

"I feel it is my duty to speak up for the 2½ million fine young Americans who have served in Vietnam. The atrocity charges in individual cases should not and cannot be allowed to reflect on their courage and their self-sacrifice. War is a terrible and cruel experience for a nation and particularly for those who bear the burden of fighting."

Nixon never mentioned the Calley case but spoke simply of "concerns which have been raised in this country, fanned by reports of brutalities in Vietnam."

On another subject much in the public eye, Nixon called again on Hanoi for immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war in Indochina.

Questions have been raised about the performance of the South Vietnamese army in Laos — sustained only by American air support and supplies. Nixon cited Laos, along with Cambodia, as "two decisions I have made which have contributed to the achievement of our goals in Vietnam."

He went on to argue that both were successful operations and, "consequently tonight — I can report that Vietnamization has succeeded."

This was when he said that "because of the success of the Cambodian operation, and because of the achievements of the South Vietnamese operation in Laos, I am announcing an increase in the rate of American withdrawals."

After announcing the modest acceleration in troop withdrawals, the President said, "The government of South Vietnam fully supports our decision."

At the same time, the President dealt with a mounting congressional chorus of suggestions and demands that a fixed date be set for total withdrawal of American forces.

Declaring this to be "a proposal which at first glance has a great deal of appeal to the American people," Nixon went on:

"The difficulty in making such an announcement to the American people is that I would also be making that announcement to the enemy. And it would serve the enemy's purpose and not our own."

After going on to say that he will get America out in a manner that will give South Vietnam a reasonable chance to exercise free choice as a people, he said of the alternative proposed by some of his critics:

"The other would end it precipitately and give victory to the Communists."

Nixon said the United States faces "The choice of ending our involvement in this war on a note of despair or on a note of hope." He quoted President Thomas Jefferson as saying that Americans always will choose hope over despair.

'Progress' Seen On University's Budget

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon and the Legislature's Appropriations Committee chairman, Sen. Richard Marvel, agreed Wednesday that progress is being made toward resolution of University of Nebraska budget problems.

Exon hosted members of the committee for lunch at the Governor's Mansion Wednesday noon and discussion centered on the NU budget.

"We made progress, but there were no agreements," Marvel said.

Some Progress

"I think some progress is being made," the governor agreed. "But certainly no agreement has been reached."

Marvel said the committee plans to huddle again in executive session with top university officials before it begins to make final decisions on the institution's operational budget.

Those decisions should be forthcoming next week after the Legislature returns from a brief Easter holiday recess.

Exon said he discussed the NU operational budget, his recommendation for $1 million in funds for parking facilities at the University of Nebraska at Omaha and the proposed Aerospace Museum at Offutt Air Force Base.

All Budget Committee members except Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, who is ill, attended the luncheon session.

On NU budget differences, the governor said: "We are trying to get the matter resolved. And while I am not completely satisfied with the progress, the lines of communication remain open."

Cost $17.5 Million

Exon cut NU's general fund request by some $17.5 million.

Both the governor and Marvel declined to reveal any details of the NU budget discussion.

But Exon said he is "concerned" about apparent UNO plans to use the proposed $1 million in land acquisition funds "to buy expensive homes rather than to provide a parking area for students" at or near the Omaha campus.

The million dollar figure was recommended for "the purpose of finding some space where UNO could buy some comparatively low-priced land as close to the campus as possible for parking facilities," the governor said.

If the funds were used to purchase expensive homes adjacent to the campus for future expansion, he suggested, they would not provide sufficient land for adequate parking.

Exon repeated his concern about the lack of progress in building an aerospace museum structure with the $260,000 appropriated by the 1969 Legislature for that purpose.

Might Be The Ones

"I talked with members of the Budget Committee and suggested they might be the ones to help straighten out the situation" when they consider his recommendation for a $251,000 reappropriation for the museum, the governor said.

Exon believes a large "prefab type structure" should be constructed to house Air Force artifacts. Instead, the Game Commission is considering a proposal to build a small visitors' center, the governor said.

THOMAS, Who Offered To Die With Him.

Alaska Senator Proposes Revising 'Romantic Myths'

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Scoring what he termed "romantic myths," U.S. Sen. Mike Gravel told a University of Nebraska audience Wednesday that the nation "will have to resort to more problem-solving" in order to improve the quality of life.

Those myths, the Alaska Democrat said, include concepts about the "profit motive," the "work ethic" and the tradition that the "least amount of government is the best amount of government."

Noting that the nation's highway, space and defense programs have been sustained by other than profit motives, Gravel predicted "the whole profit motive will come under examination" as the U.S. faces pollution issues "because (the profit concept) flies totally in the face of environmental needs."

Not Tied To Profits

Much in the manner that space and defense programs were "tied to new technologies," rather than profits, the fight to improve the quality of life will take such efforts at national levels, he said.

Gravel had suggested at a morning news conference that a regional approach to economic and environmental issues would also be needed.

He criticized President Nixon's revenue-sharing program as ill-planned. Instead of providing "lump sums" to state and local governmental units, Gravel suggested, a regional approach with national direction would best serve the nation's needs.

Conflicting Views

But he said both regional and national approaches are in conflict with the tenet that the least government is the best.

"The most effective government is the most effective government," he told his listeners, who included educational television viewers.

He suggested that problems can be discussed and solutions agreed upon, but "then it takes literally years to solve" them.

That "time lag has brought a sense of frustration," he said, a national "blowing of the mind."

"This nation will have to resort to more problem-solving," he said.

New Work Ethic

Gravel also said he believes America's traditional "work ethic . . . has to be altered."

"A new concept must be developed if we are to handle the wealth we are able to produce."

Discussing the nation's need for energy, Gravel said he believes it a mistake to expend so much of the tax dollar on atomic energy research, suggesting the future problems of atomic waste disposal will be massive.

Reorganize AEC

He said he plans to introduce legislation soon to change the Atomic Energy Commission to a "energy-environmental commission" with the emphasis on study of all future forms of power.

In the generation of energy, he said, "if we do not make a breakthrough in the ability to just boil oil, we will be trapped."

Gravel said he supports the proposed Alaska pipeline, because the oil is crucial for the national environment as well as Alaska's own economic well-being.

He said he believes safeguards against possible damage from pipeline leakage — barring earthquakes — are possible, but he said he believes all aspects of the problem must be studied "academically."

'Emotionalism Unfortunate'

He called "unfortunate" the "strong element of emotionalism" attached to the pipeline issue, but he said the "environmental concern . . . is easy to understand."

The demand that the oil be "transported safely is 'not an unreasonable request,' he said.

Suggesting that rural and urban problems must be settled in the context of a united effort, Gravel said the "problem is in getting it all together."

The "test," he said, is whether it can be done "in the context of the government we think is a very superior institution."

This year's Montgomery Lectures, which featured speeches and panel discussions, focused on the theme, "nation outside the cities."

Eighth of a Series

By JOHN J. STEWART

It had been most puzzling to the 12 apostles that the Master had kept insisting to them that He must die upon the cross. They were determined that He was soon going to become king of Israel.

While Jesus and the 12 had been at Jericho a few days before his death, He had again told them that after they got up to Jerusalem He would be betrayed and crucified.

Then it was that in a heartfelt expression of loyalty to Him Thomas Didymus, one of the 12, said to the others, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

The night before his death, Jesus, ignoring his own heavy heart, sought to comfort the 11 faithful apostles. "Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in God. Believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions . . . I go to prepare a place for you . . . And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know."

Again it was Thomas, ever candid, who replied, "Lord, we know not whither Thou goest, and how can we know the way?"

To which Jesus answered, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No man cometh unto the Father but by Me."

When, an hour later, Jesus was arrested in the Garden of Gethsemane, and taken away in chains, Thomas fled along with the other apostles. And when, next day, Jesus died on the cross, it seemed to Thomas, as to the others, that they had reached the end of the road.

The 11 apostles were in hiding following the crucifixion of Jesus. Thomas however was not with the other 10 when Jesus first appeared to them as a resurrected being.

They sought him out and exclaimed to him. "We have seen the Lord! But Thomas would not believe them. He declared, 'Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe!'"

Eight days later Jesus again appeared to the apostles. "Thomas," he said, "Reach hither thy finger, and behold My hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into My side; and be not faithless, but believing."

Ashamed of his doubting heart and overwhelmed by the glorious reality of the resurrection, Thomas with tears in his eyes fell to his knees, exclaiming, "My Lord and my God!"

Jesus saith unto him, "Thomas because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed. Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Briefing For Wives

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon will brief the wives of top administration officials on domestic affairs. It will be in line with Nixon's policy of keeping the wives informed of his policies and programs.

Nixon Labeled Scapegoater

Washington (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany accused the Nixon administration Wednesday of trying to make labor "the scapegoat for the economic mess" it had created.

In his first public statement since President Nixon set up machinery intended to control labor costs and prices in the construction industry, Meany denied a White House claim that labor had voluntarily acquiesced to the establishment of controls. They were "forced" on labor, he said.

The gruff-spoken, balding labor leader testified before the Senate subcommittee on financial institutions. He endorsed a House-passed bill to extend for two years the President's authority to impose controls on prices, wages and salaries at levels not less than those that prevailed May 25, 1970. But Meany quickly converted his appearance into an attack on Nixon's economic policies, as well as on Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

His words dripping with sarcasm, Meany said "Arthur, my good friend, the doctor," had performed "an economic miracle" through money-control policies by driving up both prices and unemployment by the Fed's money-control policies. Economists thought it couldn't be done, Meany said.

"We want inflation ended," Meany declared.

"We want full employment restored. We are prepared to sacrifice to meet these goals — as much as anyone, for as long as anyone."

"But we will not be the scapegoat for the economic mess created by this administration's ill-conceived 'game plan.'"

New York Times News Summary

Nixon Announces Further Pullout Of 100,000

Washington — President Nixon announced a further withdrawal of 100,000 American troops from South Vietnam by Dec. 1, reducing this country's forces in Vietnam to 184,000 men less than a year before the presidential election. (More on Page 1.)

Americans To Visit Peking

Nagoya, Japan — Graham B. Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, announced that 15 American table tennis players were accepting an invitation to visit Peking. (More on Page 2.)

Bayh Suggests Nixon Shut Up

Washington (UPI) — Influential Democratic senators criticized President Nixon's intervention in the Calley case Wednesday. One of them accused him of playing politics with the issue and said he should "keep his mouth shut."

The debate over the first degree murder conviction of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. for killing 22 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai intensified after disclosure that the Army captain who prosecuted the case had written Nixon opposing his intervention.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., considered a likely 1972 Democratic presidential contender, told a news conference: "Reluctantly, I have concluded that the President is determined to play politics with the Calley decision and the entire My Lai tragedy."

"I realize the gravity of such charges. I do not make them lightly, but only after the most serious consideration."

Bayh, asked what Nixon could do now, said: "He can keep his mouth shut until the final review."

But Rep. Charles Gubser, R-Calif., a member of a special House committee that investigated My Lai in 1970, said the Calley jurors and the prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey Daniel III, should be ordered to keep silent in the case.

He said Calley had been "admonished to make no statements to the press" after his conviction, but that day after day, the officers who served on the jury had been publicly defending their verdict and Daniel now has been "continuing the trial in the headlines."

Taft Defends Nixon
Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, one of six senators to whom Daniel sent a copy of his four-page letter to the President, defended Nixon's Saturday announcement that he would make the final review in the case. He said Nixon had "shown courage" in deciding to do that.

At the White House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the President had read Daniel's letter, but would have no comment on it.

Sens. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said Nixon should have remained silent. Byrd said he thought the President would have made the final review anyway, "but I don't think he should have made any statement to that effect."

House To Make Sure FBI Not Tapping Phone

Washington (UPI) — The House, embroiled in a controversy over charges the FBI had kept its members under surveillance, will install an electronic service that will detect telephone wiretaps, it was announced Wednesday.

Both a defender and a critic of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover agreed meantime that Congress ought to investigate charges by House Democratic leader Hale Boggs that Hoover's agents had maintained surveillance over legislators and tapped their telephones.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Administration Committee, announced plans to install the electronic service after he conferred with Speaker Carl Albert.

Hays said his committee would sign a contract with an electronics firm that will check all congressmen's telephones in the next few days to see if any listening devices were attached.

Hays presumed that if there are any phone taps now, they would be removed because of his announcement. But he said the committee would maintain the service to make occasional and irregular checks on House telephones.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, saying Boggs must have been "either sick or not in possession of his faculties," when he made the charges, said an investigation was needed to prove Boggs wrong and end fears his allegations have aroused in Congress.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., a critic of the FBI and its 76-year-old director, introduced a bill in the meantime to have the House Judiciary Committee investigate Boggs' charges.

He first made them on the House floor Monday, accompanied by a demand that Hoover resign, and repeated them at a news conference Tuesday despite denials by the White House and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Hoover was later quoted by GOP Senate leader Hugh Scott as denying them himself.

Rebel Leaders Eliminated

New York — A Western source who has had exceptional opportunities to follow developments in Dacca, East Pakistan, said West Pakistani forces have eliminated all of the top leadership of East Pakistan's independence movement and seem likely "in the short run" to reimpose control over the region, largely because of fresh reinforcements flown in from West Pakistan. (More on Page 18.)

Soviets Spend 25% On Arms

Moscow — The published text of an economic report given by Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin before the Soviet Communist Party congress disclosed that as much as a fourth of all funds available for growth in the Soviet Union was going to that country's military establishment. (Another story on Page 8.)

Radicals Foresee Takeover

Berkeley, Calif. — "In two years, we'll take over the whole city government." That was the promise made by the four victorious candidates for city government posts in Berkeley, who had been branded as radicals. (More on Page 20.)

Bayh Attacks Nixon

Washington — President Nixon's handling of the Calley case was attacked as "playing politics" by Sen. Birch Bayh and defended as necessary to restore morale by Sen. Robert Taft Jr. (More on Page 2.)

Kleindienst Assails Boggs

Washington — Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst accused Rep. Hale Boggs of being "either sick or not in possession of his faculties" when he charged the FBI with tapping the telephones of congressmen. (More on Page 2.)

$5 Billion For Schools OK'd

Washington — The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill appropriating $5 billion for education programs in the next fiscal year after turning back, 191 to 187, a proposal to increase the bill by $728.6 million. (More on Page 27.)

Agnew Says U.S. Masochistic

Los Angeles — Vice President Agnew said the verdict by the news media that the drive into Laos was a failure was just one example of a growing "masochism" that "will destroy us as a nation" unless checked. (More on Page 31.)

16 U.S. Ping Pong Players Accept Invitation To China

Nagoya, Japan (UPI) — The United States team playing in the world table tennis championships accepted an invitation Wednesday to visit Communist China, the first such organized American group to go to the Chinese mainland since 1949.

Graham B. Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Federation, said he and 15 other players and officials of the team will fly Friday by way of Hong Kong to the Chinese capital of Peking. He said the visit would be for five or six days.

(In Washington, U.S. State Department officials welcomed the invitation. President Nixon lifted the long-standing ban on travel by Americans to Communist China last December.)

Steenhoven said the invitation was extended by the secretary general of the Communist Chinese table tennis delegation, Sun Chung, in a meeting Wednesday morning with another member of the U.S. federation, George Harrison.

Later in the day, Steenhoven said, Harrison went into the Chinese section of the seating gallery in the auditorium where the tournament was underway to notify the Chinese of the American acceptance.

The team's visit to Communist China will be the first by an officially sanctioned, organized American group since Mao Tse-tung established the Communist regime on the mainland in 1949.

In addition to the United States, teams from Britain, Canada and France also accepted invitations to visit Peking after the tournament. The tournament, which ended Wednesday, is the first world championship in which the Communist Chinese have participated since 1965 when their cultural revolution began.

"The Chinese didn't seem surprised at hearing our acceptance of their invitation," Steenhoven said in a news conference. "We are certainly happy to have this chance to visit mainland China, and we are going at their expense."

Steenhoven said the Chinese will pay the Americans' travel expenses from Tokyo to Peking and back.

"We won't be able to stay there too long — probably five to six days," he said, "because we are committed to go back to the United States within this month."

Fighting Heavy At Fire Bases

Saigon (AP) — Heavy fighting erupted around two besieged South Vietnamese fire bases in the rugged central highlands Wednesday. Saigon headquarters claimed nearly 400 North Vietnamese troops were killed in daylong fighting, most of them by air strikes.

A communique reported South Vietnamese losses as 14 troops killed and 51 wounded in the two clashes around Fire Base 6 in the northern central highlands and Fire Base Lonely about 80 miles to the south.

The heaviest fighting was about a mile north of Fire Base 6 near the triborder juncture of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam about 300 miles north of Saigon.

320 Reds Said Killed
South Vietnamese headquarters said government infantrymen and ranger reinforcements backed by U.S. air strikes and artillery killed 320 North Vietnamese troops in several engagements. The communique said 220 of the enemy were killed by air strikes.

Eighty miles to the south near Fire Base Lonely, 63 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed, half of them by air strikes. South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and three wounded, headquarters said.

Elsewhere, more than a score of enemy troops penetrated two hamlets located one mile and 2 1/2 miles northeast of Duc Duc, which is 25 miles south of Da Nang.

Headquarters said the enemy troops destroyed 18 civilian homes and a school and abducted 23 men, women and children. Duc Duc was hard hit by North Vietnamese troops last week. The enemy soldiers killed more than 100 civilians at the time, wounded 150 and burned down 2,000 homes.

Hospital Blast
In Da Nang, an explosive device ripped through the Duy Tan military hospital. The explosion killed one South Vietnamese soldier and wounded 20 others, headquarters said.

The U.S. Command meanwhile reported five rocket and mortar attacks against U.S. installations and units in the area. A communique said 19 Americans were wounded in the five attacks.

A North Vietnamese defector said his battalion in the area of besieged Fire Base 6 was low on food and nearly starving because a U.S. B52 raid last week wiped out its supplies.

In Saigon, government officials reported the bodies of 18 more South Vietnamese civilians murdered by the enemy in the 1968 Tet offensive had been found near Hue, the old imperial capital in the north.

The bodies were found 10 miles north of Hue in shallow graves. Officials were led to the spot by a Viet Cong defector, who said enemy troops executed 40-50 civilians and buried them there.

More than 5,000 civilians were missing from the Hue area after the Tet offensive. More than 3,000 bodies have been found, mostly in mass graves near Hue.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It was just the kind of election Tuesday that was expected. The turnout was light and those candidates won who most people figured would win. The disappointing aspect was in the turnout, only about one-third of the registered voters bothering to cast a ballot.

This is probably due to the fact that there were no controversial programs on the ballot and no divisive issue among the candidates. This also helps explain the pattern of the voting, going as most people thought it would.

That left incumbent Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and City Council Chairman Ervin E. Peterson nominated for the general election runoff. It left Councilwoman Helen Boosalis heading the list of eight nominees for the council, none of whom might have been considered a dark horse in comparison with all the candidates on the ballot.

You have to give to Schwartzkopf the favorite's role in the May general election. He chalked up nearly 11,000 votes as opposed to 6,411 for Peterson and 4,122 for Bill Davidson. Even if Peterson had received all the Davidson votes, he would not have topped Schwartzkopf.

It would be foolhardy, however, to assume that Schwartzkopf now has the general election all sewed up. Peterson has just as much experience in city government as does Schwartzkopf and Peterson is widely known and respected.

The council chairman, also, has been very active in community affairs for a long time and will wage a competent and diligent campaign. Obviously, his challenge is to make the average voter more conscious of what and who he is.

A lot of voters in the average voter category do know who Schwartzkopf is. On the other hand, Peterson's name is not an especially unique one. He will have to do something to impress that name on the mind of voters, many of whom are not especially astute observers of the political scene.

How will Peterson go about this? That is something he will have to determine for himself but the election demonstrates the difficulty of the task.

There was nothing particular that turned the voters away from Mayor Schwartzkopf. In four years in office, he might well have compiled a record subject to attack for one reason or another but this was not the expression of voters Tuesday.

Peterson hit in the primary on the theme of leadership but it did the mayor no great harm, apparently. If that is to be the issue, Peterson is going to have to define it in very clear and understandable terms.

Then, his leadership will have to be of the kind that the people want. Peculiarly, it seems, some things that might have been issues never really developed as such in the primary. For example, nobody ever mentioned streets and it is one area where Lincoln has never faced its responsibilities.

By now, Lincoln must be at least $20 million and probably far more than that behind in new street improvement programs. That means programs of improving existing arterials, providing new arterials and generally doing a better job of traffic movement.

We believe Lincoln faces a staggering load in this regard in the years ahead but no one seems to talk about it. Then, there is the matter of future growth of the city—to the west, the north, the south or into Stevens Creek at the east? We have not done nearly the planning in this regard that we should have done.

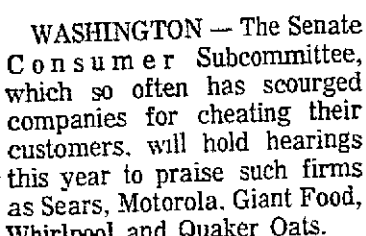

Housing was an issue but it was difficult on this subject to distinguish one candidate from another. None of them advanced a program of any imagination and all of them seemed dreadfully afraid of indicating they would spend any money on this score.

Peterson gets credit for focusing some attention on parks and we hope he gets into this subject even more seriously. Unfortunately, he concentrated on park development in Northeast Lincoln when the need is widespread and runs to a total of more than a million dollars a year.

And who will solve the downtown parking problems? A lot of subjects are open for discussion and we have the feeling that before the primary election rolls around, these subjects will get a pretty good airing.

Several Companies On Consumers' Side

WASHINGTON — The Senate Consumer Subcommittee, which so often has scoured companies for cheating their customers, will hold hearings this year to praise such firms as Sears, Motorola, Giant Food, Whirlpool and Quaker Oats.

The reason for this turnaround: The committee has found these companies have actually joined the consumer revolution. In confidential written instructions to the staff, Chairman Frank Moss, D-Utah, points out: "We have seen irresponsible behavior and worse among several of the largest corporations in this country. But in our understandable zeal to strike back at this, we have not given sufficient credit to those companies which have displayed an uncommon sense of responsibility."

He directed the staff to prepare hearings later in the year to "explore the positive voluntary achievement of these companies in meeting real consumer needs. To the extent that government action or inaction is a barrier to effective voluntary self-regulation, I want to know about that, too."

"I think this series of hearings will serve to encourage other companies to follow these examples of responsible behavior rather than the piper call of the strident, man-the-barricades lobbyists."

Moss excoriates some prominent companies and trade groups, however, in the same memo that he hails the good guys.

He labels Ford and General Motors as irresponsible for "wildly exaggerating the cost of safety improvements." He castigates the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for "scurrying about peddling amendments to cut gaping holes in the fabric of consumer protection."

He attacks the American Retail Federation for fighting class action bills which would give consumers more power to sue in court when they are bilked or sold shoddy goods.

And he denounces the "obstructionist performance" of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association for "trying to lobby the heart out of the Poison Prevention Packaging Act."

Phony advertising, adds Moss, disillusions youth. Over-the-counter drug advertising, for instance, has "fertilized the social ground in which drug abuse takes root."

But in contrast, the confidential Moss memo praises Sears for constructive lobbying "not for the purpose of weakening legislation but to clarify industry's responsibilities."

Giant Food is lauded for hiring consumer advocate Esther Peterson, knowing full well she "would demand substance and not lip service."

The memo also outlines how Motorola has sent factory representatives around to buyers of its major products and has stood up for "warranty and independent consumer agency proposals."

Moss singles out Bud Gray of Whirlpool, who "is dead serious about transforming the Better Business Bureau . . . from their traditional role as weak-kneed apologist into a consumer watchdog." There is praise, too, for "pioneer advertising men like Fred Baker of Seattle and Victor Fitting of the Quaker Oats Company (who) have been fighting for . . . a strong program of advertising self-regulation."

Elections Elsewhere

Because it is the location of a great American university, Berkeley, California, has held the spotlight of public interest as much as any city in the country during the past troubled decade. It has been witness to some of the best and some of the worst facets of contemporary American life.

And it is more than a campus community. It is a city of 113,000 which has its share of racial division and poverty problems. An estimated 80% of Berkeley's voters, turned out Tuesday for a hotly-contested election in which three self-proclaimed radicals won seats on the City Council and a black mayor, Berkeley's first, who supported the radicals, was elected.

What do the "radicals" want? A truly radical police partition plan, which they lost; but more than that, new city services for the poor, including rent control on apartments and free child care centers and imposition of a city tax on income above $12,000 to replace the property tax.

A good many people will read the headlines about "Berkeley Radicals" and think they are fortunate to live elsewhere. It would be better, however, to think in terms of "can these people produce." The radicals used the system to achieve their program. They are at the center of power locally, whether or not they have a working majority, and if the city government of Berkeley can improve the lot of its citizens, then the system will have achieved a victory.

The distance between Berkeley and Chicago can be measured in terms other than miles. In Chicago on the same election day, the Old Pro won again, re-establishing himself as a major power within the national Democratic Party. Evidently a bricks-and-mortar mayor is enough for Chicagoans; no independence for them. Government with a human face, to paraphrase a noted failure, has lost again.

Only One Moral Law

It was a fine opening given the 1971 Montgomery Lecture series at the University of Nebraska by former U.S. Senator Albert Gore. Speaking against the public outcry in behalf of Lt. William Calley, Gore reminded us that mankind has no double standard of existence.

Thus, it is wrong to excuse the faults of your own nation while singling out the faults of others. The Calley case has leaned heavily on the fact that he was a U.S. serviceman fighting a war for his country.

But if what Calley did was wrong, it cannot be excused simply because he was our man in Vietnam. Gore warned against the kind of parochialism which tends to make one look at his own country only through rose-colored glasses.

It is foolhardy to take the attitude that your own country is always right, regardless of the circumstances. The men and women who serve their nation are those whose loyalty directs them to recognize the faults and weaknesses which exist in an effort to correct them.

We do our country no service by blindly approving everything it does. If we seek to promote in the world a standard of high moral conduct, we must be the first ones to live by that standard.

We cannot condone inhumanity around the world but turn around and practice it ourselves. Any time we deny our human dignity, we need the courage to say so and the conviction to do something about it.

We have a multitude of things to be proud of and our nation is truly a great one but that gives us no position of infallibility. If we cannot recognize and admit our faults, we should never expect the rest of the world to do so in its behalf. And until this is at least a reasonable expectation in the world, we shall not find the peace we search for.

Foreign Press Views Nixon's Part In Calley Case; Vietnam War End Suggested More Appropriate

London — In many countries friendly to the United States, there has been a highly critical reaction to President Nixon's intervention in the Calley case.

Published comment has expressed shock at what is seen as an interference with the process of law. Some commentators have said that a more appropriate political response to the trial would have been to end the Vietnam war.

Those are the broad results of a check by New York Times correspondents. It covered a number of countries in Europe and Asia, including Australia, which has supported American policy in Vietnam and has troops there.

The Sunday Australian said in an editorial that Nixon's decision to release First Lieut. William L. Calley Jr. from prison "will be deeply regretted by all who care for the rule of law."

"What happens to Calley himself is of secondary importance," the paper continued. "What is of primary importance is the integrity of the American system of justice and the certainty that, whatever the emotional overtones surrounding the trial, it will not be deflected by political expediency."

Nixon ordered Calley released pending review of his conviction for the murder of 22 civilians at My Lai.

Another Australian paper, the Newcastle Morning Herald, asked rhetorically whether it was honor that "prompted President Nixon's interference" or "populism taking precedence over due process of law."

It said the President had "a disturbing penchant for pre-judging cases" and had left himself open "to the suggestion that he dipped the first brush in the can of whitewash."

The Sydney Morning Herald carried a bitterly ironic letter from a reader, Robert J. Mayne, saying that Calley might have been "a little harsh in his judgment on the 22 Vietnamese civilians." Mayne continued:

"Might he not reconsider the severity of his sentence? While he is considering his verdict, the least he could do is let the people return to their hamlet and live in comfort."

A correspondent in Tokyo interviewed a woman who worked for an American lawyer in the war crimes trials after World War II. Mrs. Naoko Shuntani said:

"Nixon's order freeing Calley strikes me as a trick. I don't see in it any sense of self-reflection over American actions in Vietnam. If he really felt any sense of responsibility, he should have ordered an immediate armistice."

The Japanese press has taken the general line, the correspondent said, that higher commanders should be blamed for the My Lai massacre and that the whole American conduct of the war should be on trial.

A similar view was taken by France-Soir, the Paris newspaper. It said editorially:

"In the person of Calley, it is American policy that the Port Benning court recognized as guilty. In logic as in equity, it is up to the American government to carry out the sentence, that is to say, to put an end to the war in the shortest possible time."

Many French commentators declared themselves shocked by what they termed Nixon's violation of the independence of the judiciary. They referred to his announcement that he would personally make the final review of the judgment and sentence in the case.

France-Soir said: "The intervention of the head of state in a matter of this kind is without precedent. It has no legal basis whatsoever."

A Rome correspondent reported noncommunist opinion "overwhelmingly negative in its reactions" to the President's intervention. He added that even usually pro-American newspapers were saying that Nixon made a mistake.

German politicians and newspapers have been, understandably, extremely

Airport Facilities

Lincoln, Neb. It has come to my attention that the Airport Authority is pressing for construction of the new air terminal with the reasoning that Lincoln's air traffic will be increasing by leaps and bounds in the future and that the present facilities are not sufficient to take care of the present traffic.

I would like to disagree with this statement, because I have used the Lincoln facilities quite often and must say that the congestion or overcrowding of the facility has been found in very rare instances. I am certainly for progress and for improving any facility which will help the city of Lincoln, but the condition in the present airport does not seem to warrant construction of a new terminal.

I give as an example the fact that the present traffic does not warrant for the Airport Authority to hire a porter to help the people carry luggage to their transportation. There are women with children traveling and also heart patients or other incapacitated passengers who are unable to handle their own luggage, but in my many travels I have found Lincoln to be the only airport of any size that does not have a porter available for this service.

Another reason why the new facility seems not to be necessary is the fact that there is no cab available at the airport on arrival. If there were a demand for cab service, I know that the cabs would be lined up as in other cities to

The airport restaurant is closed early in the evening and should you arrive on the late plane or try to meet someone, you are not able to purchase any food or refreshments in the evening. The airport closes at 10:30 at night after the last plane from Chicago arrives and I think there are many things the city would need more urgently than a new elaborate air terminal.

Omaha, Neb.

During World War II there was a popular song, "If I do some great deed, I will be a hero, and a hero brave is what I want to be."

America has always had its war heroes—Nathan Hale, the spy for Washington; Sgt. York, who shot only armed soldiers; Colin Kelly, and now Lt. Calley.

I never was sure about General Custer but at least he died with his boots on.

Food Tax Bill

Nelson, Neb.

According to the paper, four of the eight Revenue Committee members are conscientiously operating in the milieu of the people's need for removal of the poor-robbing food tax, and these four senators vote "yes" on each attempt to get the food tax bill to the floor for debate.

The names of these humane senators are not reported, but they deserve the sincere appreciation of thousands of Nebraskans. The "nay" senators are Jerome Warner, of Waverly; J. W. Burbach, of Crofton; Maurice Kremer, of Aurora; and Willard Waldo, of DeWitt. We hope these senators will join with their fellow committee members and vote "yes" to get the matter to the floor for debate. The tax is a gross hardship on many thousands of Nebraskans.

The Responsibility

Lincoln, Neb.

The news media have a many times unrequited, unrecognized, yet non-equal responsibility of presenting, unmasking issues of universal, domestic and local concern, thereby giving each person the opportunity or the choice of becoming informed and involved.

The simplicity of the fact that a nation is no better than but equal to its people seems to be too often forgotten among the pressures of one's position.

The editorial in regard to the Calley trial reflects the standards of our time, of our society.

It is my opinion that editorials that find strength in general, non-accusing and unrelated statements mirror the other shortcomings of our great country.

In seeing the potential of so many things fall short, it is extremely disheartening to see this important medium following its peers.

Our Tongueless Cultivator at $12.00.

I listened to my father tell of his work in the fields so many springs ago and sensed his air of nostalgia for something glimpsed and known then left behind. Somehow I had a sense of antiquity, a sense that is a part of each generation as they learn from those who came before and also an emotion of pride.

As a young boy, he cultivated corn with a tongueless cultivator, a single row machine with two wheels. If one mule slowed up or stopped, as mules were known to do for reasons known only to a mule, the wheel would fall over if he didn't hold to the handles. Since there was no tongue, the cultivator had to come around the corner when the mule went around the corner. By evening, after walking back and forth through the field, a young lad grew mighty tired. He said they used it for the last time in 1908.

I did a bit of research in an old mail-order catalog and found the cultivator sold for 13 dollars delivered on board to Alton, Illinois from which point freight must be paid. The price was the same whether a steel or wood beam was ordered. The illustration stated it had a perfect lateral or vertical adjustment, had hang-up hooks which could be turned out of the way when at work, runners which could be put in a carrying position quickly without the use of a wrench, had shovels shaped so as to turn the earth the same way and throw it over like a plow and would not swing off to one side.

When pushed out to dodge the corn, it would instantly swing back. My father says the kind he used was the first one made and went by the name "Patte" or "Pat Tee." I have looked for this trade name and am not certain how it was spelled but perhaps if I continue to search, I will find out more about this early farming machine.

Now I think of how farmers jump on a tractor and never have to get off to lift machines out of the ground, listen to world-wide news on the radio and raise crops that yield much higher than the farmers of long ago ever dreamed possible.

Yet my father knew the same joys as farmers do today as he walked across the rolling upland, ascending and descending the slopes, guiding his team and machine. The rattle and snap of the tugs filled the mornings and the long heat of late afternoons with a jingle broken only when he took off his straw hat to wipe the sweat from his brow with his red bandana handkerchief.

I haven't seen any special Easter rabbits for surely they must be a breed by themselves. One common gray bunny, a country bunny, sat in our front yard this morning. Its nose twitched as it sniffed the early morning air. Its ears were almost translucent against the backlighting of the rising sun rays. Its large dark eyes flashed this way and that as it watched for our cats. Spying something not to its liking, it bounded away seeking some private hiding place. As far as I know, it is still in hiding.

Perhaps what it spied so early this morning was the elegant Easter rabbit with fur that has never been torn and tattered and feet that have never been muddled by field mud. Perhaps, just perhaps, the gray bunny immediately got an inferiority complex at seeing such a fine rabbit that it decided to remain hidden until after Easter Sunday. Then after all the eggs have been delivered and Easter vacation forgotten, it will come back to twitch its nose at me in my front yard.

"Mary, drop what you're doing and serve that gentleman, will you."

Mother Bound To Apartment In Declining Neighborhood

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

A reader writes: My mother lives in a city apartment where she has been for many years, glued to her three rooms. She has no auto and because the area she's in has changed so, she remains bound to her apartment most of the time without means of transportation to needed services and facilities.

CARMICHAEL

To add to the problem, there is now quite a lot of crime in her neighborhood and she has a fear of going out, unescorted. I'm continually urging her to move. Don't you think she should?

Answer: — It's a miserable way of life when a person feels imprisoned in his quarters this way. By all means, try to find a new home for your mother in which she can feel free again.

It's an unfortunate situation shared by many older people. In conferences on aging, many elderly said that their transportation problem is second only to their income and health problems. And a surprising number of these people said their lack of mobility was their number one problem.

Transportation is a critical need in many locales, to give the older person access to the basic services of the community to consumer needs, for food, banking, legal, health, welfare, educational, recreational and religious needs — as well as the opportunity to participate in social life.

A reader writes: — I'm seeking a good backyard hobby for my about-to-retire husband. He loves the outdoors and putting around and of course, if it could be a money-making hobby, so much the better. We have two acres of land, so there's plenty of space for him to stretch.

Answer: — Why not suggest beekeeping. It's a practical and money-making, specialized activity. Few occupations require so little capital. Many back-lot beekeepers get considerable pleasure and relaxation from a few hives of bees.

In addition to direct returns from the sale of honey, the beekeeper gets a monetary return from the sale of beeswax. There are some 54 crops that are dependent upon the honeybee for pollination. Many beekeepers truck colonies of bees to orchards where substantial fees are collected for their pollenization work.

Besides individual sales, there's the industrial market. Millions of pounds of honey are used each year by the baking industry. Other large quantity users are manufacturers of confectionery, ice cream, beverages, and similar products. So there's a definite market value to the hobby of beekeeping.

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Backache is a common ailment among civilized man. There are very few adults who have not had a touch of this malady now and then. Some credit for this ailment can be given to soft beds, soft chairs and wearing ill-fitting shoes.

Good posture of the entire body is important in preventing low back pain. When lifting heavy objects, keep the back straight and lift with the knees and thigh muscles, rather than bending over and straining the spine. Backache can be aggravated by emotional tension or anxiety. Treatment of the disease varies with the cause, but when it is due to strain, usually rest, heat and a pain reliever will help. Your physician may recommend exercise to strengthen the muscles of the back and to improve posture. Remember also that backache may be due to disease not directly relating to the back.

Irvington Bank Charter Request Is Turned Down

State Banking Director Henry Ley reported Wednesday his department has turned down the Irvington State Bank's application for a charter to operate a bank at 90th and Military Sts., also described as the northwest corner of 90th and Highway 133 in Douglas County.

The order of denial said that although the stockholders and officers are "parties of integrity and responsibility," the public necessity, convenience and advantage "will not be promoted by permitting such corporation to engage in business as a bank."

A public hearing on the bank's charter application was held Feb. 16-17-18.

Helping keep Nebraska beautiful in the design, construction and maintenance of the roadway is a year around effort for the Nebraska Department of Roads.

The department has $760 miles of roads to maintain and approximately 175,000 acres of right of way to keep attractive. Policies and priorities have to be established for a task of this size, and out of an annual budget of $13,500,000 approximately $1,127,000 is spent on keeping Nebraska's highway rights of way beautiful.

Litter, one of the most obvious eyesores distorting the natural beauty of the countryside, is expensive. Its removal cost the taxpayer about $138,000 last year. This is a year-round task for maintenance crews. In addition, the Interstate emergency vehicles (which are to aid stalled motorists), also have the responsibility of picking up litter and large objects which fall or are discarded from trucks and other vehicles.

Groups Can Help

The department does allow civic groups to remove litter from along the highway under certain conditions, but permission to do so must be in writing from the district engineer. This activity must be carried on for the express

3 High School Students Win Scholarships

Three Nebraska high school students were awarded a total $800 in scholarships Wednesday and four others each received $25 savings bonds for their achievements in the "Stay in Nebraska" contest sponsored by 10 Nebraska advertising firms.

The top prize, a $500 scholarship to be used at any Nebraska college, university or technical school, was awarded to Vince Boucher of Omaha Westside High School.

A $200 scholarship was awarded to Megan Moret of Superior High School for second place and the third place $100 scholarship was received by Sue Ready of Giltner High School.

The honorable mention $25 bonds were awarded to Steve DeVoss of Omaha Westside; David Sanders of Omaha Burke; Lee Anne Ray of Superior High, and Kathy McNerney of Giltner High.

The "Stay In Nebraska" contest was sponsored by the Nebraska advertisers in an effort to get juniors and seniors in Nebraska high schools to sell themselves and others on the opportunities in Nebraska by actively researching and creating a newspaper advertisement urging other young people to stay in Nebraska

Women Charge Discrimination; Hearing Planned

State Equal Opportunity Commission Director Reid Devoe said Wednesday a public hearing will be held May 4 on a job discrimination complaint filed by 15 women against the Jubilee Manufacturing Co. of Omaha.

Devoe said the women contend the company was paying higher wages to male employees than to females for doing the same work.

Omaha attorney Mrs. Betty Jeanne Holcomb Keller will be the examiner for the hearing, which will be held at the United Community Service Building beginning at 9 a.m.

Clark's Clothing Low Bidder On Police Uniforms

Clarks Clothing was the apparent low bidder Wednesday to supply the city with police uniforms.

The firm bid $15,932. Magee's had submitted a lower bid, which was rejected because no bid security was enclosed with the bid.

purpose of safety and beauty for highway travel, and not as an advertisement or profit for any organization.

Such groups must be properly supervised and all safety precautions for both participants and the traveling public must be observed. Policy prohibits groups from removing litter on the Interstate or other high traffic volume roads.

Department of Roads engineers, through corridor studies, are making greater efforts in the selection of highway alignments, and are taking into account sociological, ecological and aesthetic aspects to protect, preserve and display Nebraska's heritage.

Pollution Concern

Pollution, another major concern, is also investigated by the engineers and prevented as much as possible. Construction contracts include specifications that spell out temporary settling basins and provide for temporary seeding and mulching to prevent soil erosion and pollution of streams and rivers during the construction.

Another policy of the department includes borrow pit restoration. When dirt is removed from private property for construction purposes, these areas are contour graded to blend into the surrounding terrain and the original top soil replaced. The department reseeds and revegetates the area to prevent unnecessary erosion.

The Chain-O-Lakes along the Interstate in the Platte Valley, is an example of department utilization of construction borrow areas in developing and encouraging scenic beauty, recreation facilities and wildlife refuges. These areas are being turned over to the Game and Parks Commission for further development and management.

Great Rest Areas

Nebraska's system of rest areas along the Interstate is second to none. They provide passing motorists with a park-type atmosphere bounded by a backdrop of native flora which is allowed to assume its natural state. Each rest area site is developed and landscaped to reflect and express the dominant topographical, historical, archeological, agricultural, or biological features in the area's proximity.

Efforts are made to point out indigenous plant material and native grasses in each area. All rest areas have strict daily maintenance through the year.

Further development of highway roadsides with safety and aesthetics in mind is being promoted by landscaping. Besides creating a pleasant environment for the motorists, appropriately developed roadsides can result in considerable saving in maintenance costs.

Landscape plant materials are being used to soften construction scars and blend the highway into the environment. Plant material is also used for traffic guidance, screening unsightly areas, living snow fences and stabilizing slopes for erosion prevention.

Extensive Seeding

A policy along the Interstate and primary highway systems calls for an extensive program of seeding. The Department of Roads uses a grass seed mixture of introduced and native grasses which encourages the revegetation and regeneration of once abundant native grasses and showy wild flowers, which are important parts of Nebraska's heritage.

To further the revegetation and regeneration, the DOR adopted a mowing policy in 1967 in which only the shoulder areas and medians are mowed on a continuous basis. This limited mowing has resulted in considerable savings to the department as well as restoring approximately 100,000 acres of roadside vegetation for use as wildlife habitat.

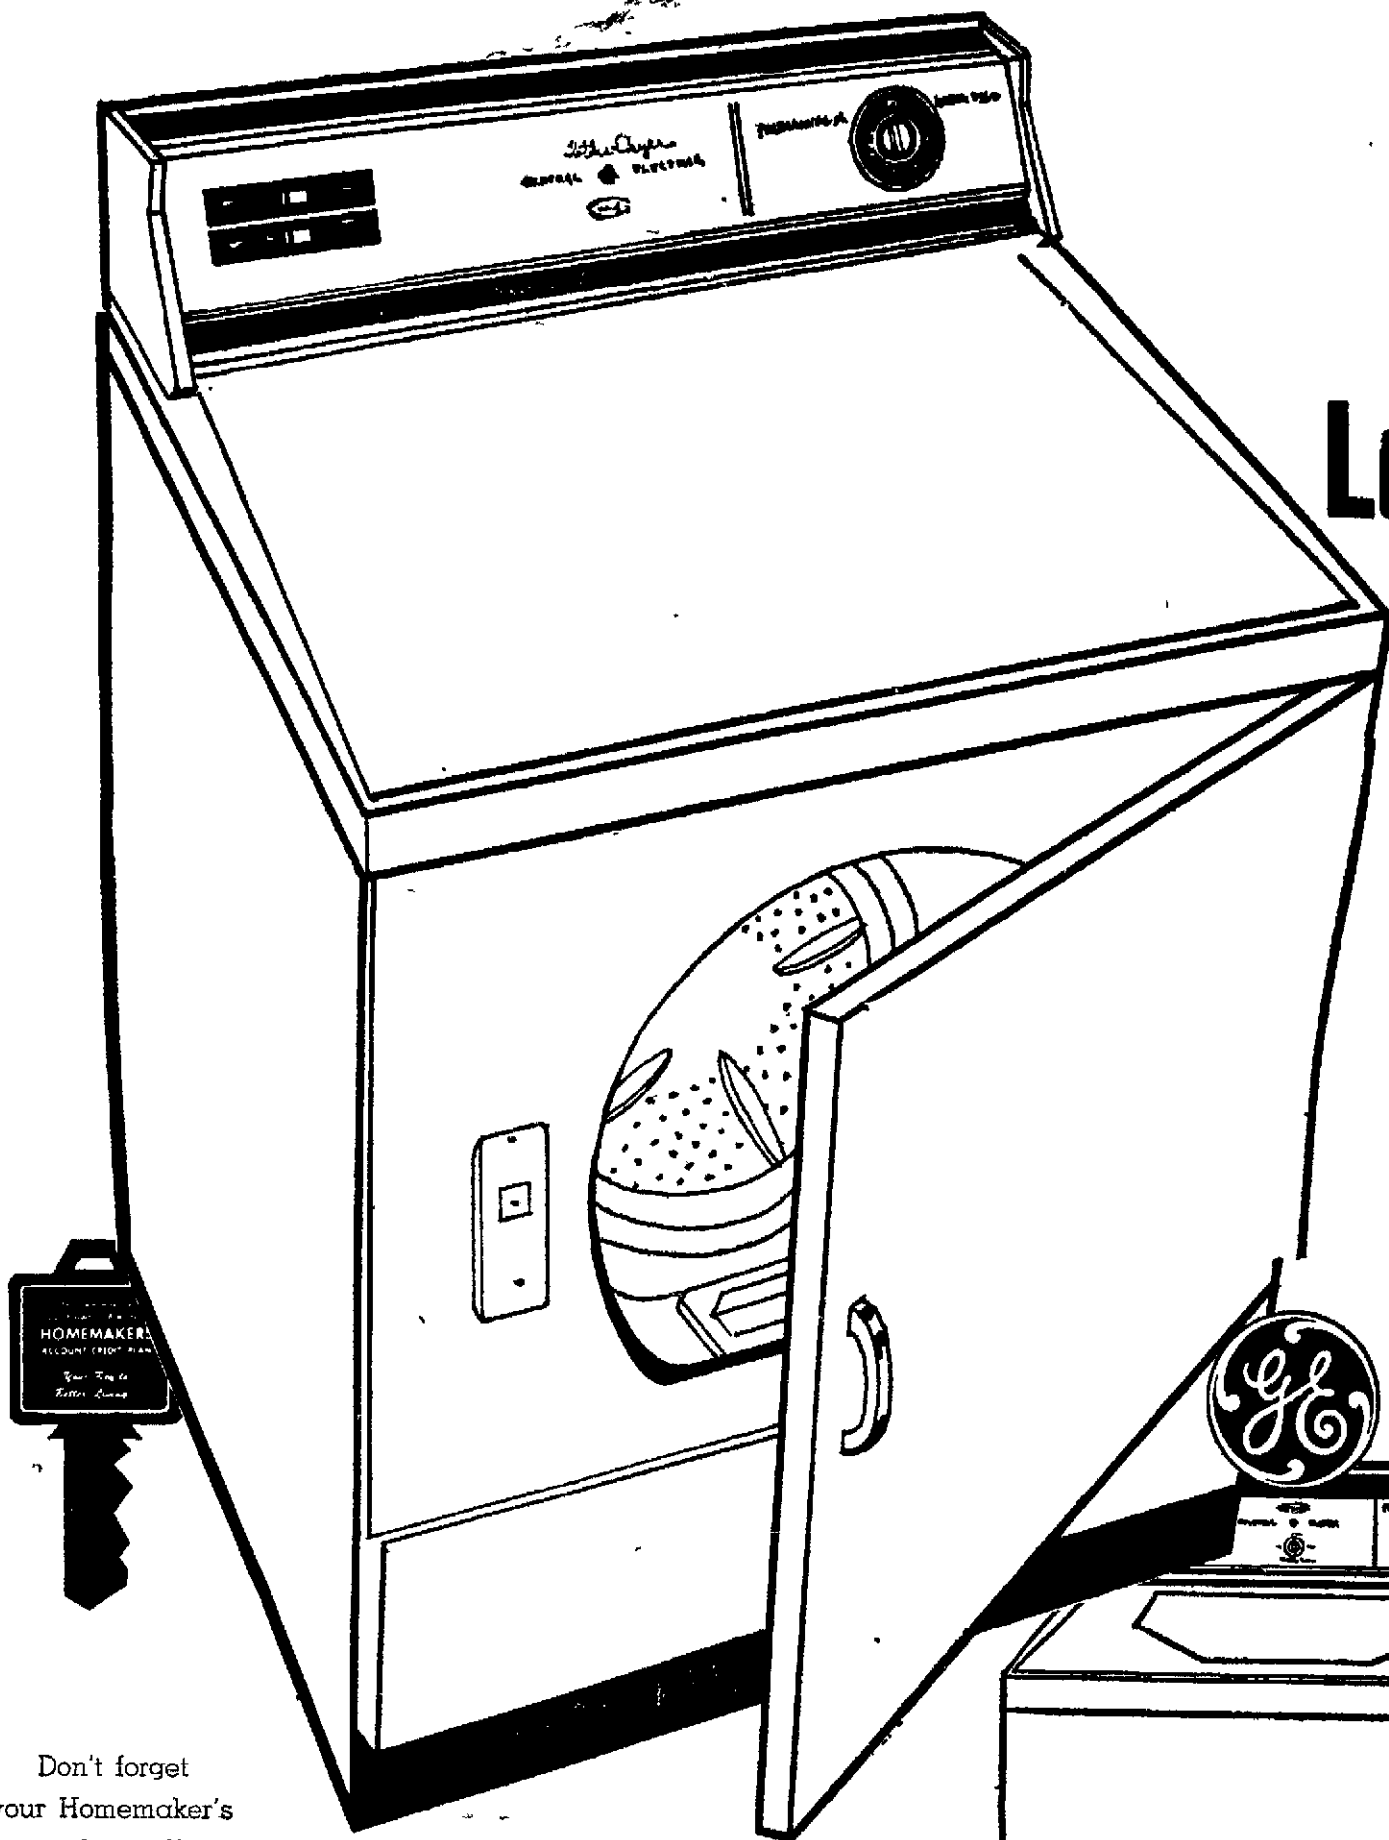

The Department of Roads has worked closely with the University of Nebraska in establishing research projects to develop and protect our ecology along the right of way. Research projects have been set up to study turf establishment, erosion control, use of herbicides, introduced and native ornamentals and the establishment of wild flowers.

New Regulations For Scales Set

New rules and regulations governing the installation and relocation of platform scales with pits will take effect May 1, State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher reported Wednesday.

A public hearing on the new rules was held April 1. Kreuscher said the objectives are to insure proper installation of commercial platform scales, and prevent noncommercial scales or condemned scales from being relocated.

ASUN Senate Awaits Ruling On Appointment

The University of Nebraska student senate Wednesday deferred a decision on appointment of a third student to the search committee for a new president for the Lincoln campus and outstate activities.

The senate adjourned amid shouts of disapproval from student senators who were angered because John K. Hansen has been ruled ineligible to serve on the committee.

The student affairs office ruled that since he was not a fulltime student he could not serve on the committee.

But Hansen, who was one of three students selected after the senators conducted interviews, said he has since attempted unsuccessfully to add three credit hours to his current load, a move which would make him a full-time student.

He told the senate that since the Teachers College blocked that attempt, he has changed his registration into the Arts and Sciences College.

A decision on his request to add the hours will be made Thursday morning, he said.

The decision on Hansen's eligibility has angered some students who say the parttime student question has never before been raised in relation to search committees.

They told the senate the ruling was the result of campus "power plays" aimed against Hansen's character. Hansen, who has been active in a liberal campus organization known as the "free speech movement," is also on the staff of a campus "underground newspaper," the Informer.

The student senate postponed action until after word on Hansen's request to add the hours. The senate did, however, vote to direct the Council on Student Life to review the eligibility question.

Terrorist Shoots Military Chief Of Iran Tribunal

Tehran, Iran (UPI) — A terrorist with a machine gun shot and wounded Gen. Ziaddin Farsiu, chief of Iran's military tribunal, and the officer's 17-year-old son Wednesday in the garage of their suburban home.

A police spokesman said the attack apparently was in retaliation for Farsiu's recent order of execution for 13 men convicted of plotting to begin a guerrilla movement with Communist support against the government of the shah of Iran. He was scheduled to hear the trial of 50 others imprisoned on the same charges.

Farsiu was reported in critical condition with six bullet wounds. His son, Farzad, suffered two wounds, police said.

Utah Conductor Will Get Award

New York (UPI) — Maurice Abravanel, conductor of the Utah Symphony, will be awarded the 1971 Alice M. Ditson Conductor's Award by Columbia University. It was announced Wednesday.

The award, which is accompanied by $1,000, annually honors a conductor for encouraging contemporary American music. It will be presented to Abravanel at a ceremony next Saturday in Salt Lake City after the symphony's last regular concert of the season.

Reserve Lt. Abel Cited For Studies

Army Reserve 1st Lt. John C. Abel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Abel of Lincoln, has received the Outstanding Student plaque from the 5049th USAR School in Omaha.

A University of Arizona graduate, Lt. Abel studied two years at the University of Nebraska.

In civilian life he is vice president and assistant manager of the Kerford Limestone Co. and is associated with the Abel Construction Co. of Lincoln.

newly formed Inter-Church Ministries of Nebraska (IMN).

The statewide church organization "went through a kind of death this spring," said the Rev. Robert Jeambey, who was renamed the group's executive secretary. "But a resurrection has occurred."

The Rev. Mr. Jeambey said invitations will go out to a wide circle of Christian denominations for an IMN forum to be held in June.

In other action, the board voted to continue the annual state ministers' convocation; explore proposals for a multi-denominational media center; continue a research and planning program designed to help rural churches, and consider coordination of programs and ministries in inner-city Omaha.

YOUTH BRIGHTEN PARTY CONGRESS

Delegates to the Soviet Communist Party congress applaud as school children hold up display of No. 5 signs at Wednesday's sessions. The number indicates the highest mark attainable in all subjects.

Other Communists Join Dissenters

Moscow (UPI) — Three more foreign Communist parties joined a movement for independence from Soviet-style communism Wednesday in speeches before the 24th Soviet party congress.

This brought to seven the number of speakers opposing the comments of the Byelorussian party leader, Pyotr Masherov, who a week ago scorned any deviation from the Soviet Model of Communist structure.

The Belgian, Chilean and Japanese party leaders joined in opposition to Masherov's position Wednesday with Romanian party leader Nicolae Ceausescu, Italian deputy leader Enrico Berlinguer, Yugoslav delegation leader Mjalko Todorovich and Spanish party leader Dolores Ibarruri.

Masherov, an alternate member of the ruling Soviet Politburo, had attacked Communist China in his speech as a "particularly repulsive" example of revisionism from the left and also heaped scorn on "rightists" who "talk of pluralism and numerous national models of socialism."

He presumably was referring to Yugoslavia and to such "reformist" non-ruling parties as the Italian, Belgian and British. In Chile, the party is included in a coalition supporting President Salvador Allende, a Marxist.

The strongest plea Wednesday against monolithic leadership came from Tomi Nishisawa, leader of the Japanese delegation.

"Relations between parties must be based on respect of the independence of each party and non-interference in one another's affairs," he said. Marc Drumaux, leader of the Belgian delegation, and Ernau Del Canto, a leader of Chile's Socialist party, made similar appeals.

Lincoln Foundation Acquires Additional Property On N St.

The purchase of the property now the site of the Korn Popper and Skyline ice-cream businesses by the Lincoln Foundation was announced Wednesday at the group's annual meeting.

Foundation President Robert Guenzel said that the property which includes a 30 by 142 foot lot on which the two businesses are located and a two-story residence were purchased for investment purposes from Mrs.

Grace E. Miller of Hastings and Miss Wesona Miller of Lincoln.

The sale price was not disclosed.

The Foundation, in addition to the property at 15th and N where the Lincoln Center is located, also owns the property east of the newly-acquired property which was the former site of Annie L. Miller Hall operated by the YWCA.

The foundation also disclosed plans to increase its 142 members at large to 157 five of whom will be student representatives from Lincoln's five high schools with the representation designated by the Student Council of each school.

Named as new members-at-large are:

S. Turner Allen, Mrs. Larry Enersen, Donald L. Ferguson, Mrs. Wendell Gauger, Mrs. George Holyoke, Percy Mays, Mrs. Lucy Nevels, Judge W. W. Nuernberger, Robert J. Phillips, L. C. Price, Fred N. Wells and Phil York.

Also named Wednesday were six members of the board of directors for three-year terms: William I. Aitken; R. E. Campbell, Robert C. Guenzel, John Lawlor, Harry Simon and Harold P. Stebbins.

Election of other officers was deferred until such time as a committee may review the organizational setup of the Lincoln Foundation and make recommendations for needed changes to comply with the 1969 Tax Reform Act.

In other business, Executive Director John Frey summarized the year's activities and reported a total fund balance as of Dec. 31, 1970, of $2,499,591, as compared with $2,328,153 as of that date in 1969.

Zoning Appeals Board Rejects Church Request

The Board of Zoning Appeals Wednesday denied a waiver of front yard requirements for a parking lot for Our Savior's Lutheran Church at 4000 Mohawk.

The request by the church for the waiver had been protested by several area residents.

Don Witt, an attorney representing the church, said that the church needs parking stalls within the 25-foot setback required by the city zoning ordinance.

A waiver of the setback requirement would have provided an additional 13 parking stalls.

The church can still go ahead, though and build the parking lot.

The board also approved waiving lot size requirements for a proposed four-plex at 1456 Mulberry and rear yard requirements for constructing a garage at 5244 M St.

Jensen Urges Better Help For Retarded

Ron Jensen, a candidate for the Board of Education, Thursday called for a more comprehensive effort within the Lincoln Schools to meet the needs of the trainable and educable mentally retarded.

"My examination of this area," Jensen said, "indicates that the Lincoln schools have made an excellent beginning in serving the educable mentally retarded. At the same time, I feel more could be done, especially to meet the needs of the trainable retarded and multi-handicapped children."

Jensen praised the Lincoln District's practice of geographically dispersing programs for the educable retarded, as well as the employment of special personnel to work with those youngsters.

The candidate noted, however, that the only classes for the trainable retarded are provided through a purchase arrangement with Educational Service Unit No. 6, headquartered at Milford. The classes are conducted at Lincoln's Air Park West, General Arnold School.

"I would like to see the program for the trainable retarded incorporated into the Lincoln system," Jensen said.

Jensen also said that he would like to see additional emphasis on vocational training and preparation in all of the Lincoln Schools' programs serving the retarded. The candidate noted that this element is currently lacking in such programs and said, "If we are going to think in terms of normalization, we must eventually equip retarded individuals to do an adequate job of competing in the job market."

Two Separatists Seriously Wound Yugoslav Official

Stockholm (UPI) — Two members of a Croatian separatist group in Yugoslavia shot and wounded the Yugoslav ambassador to Sweden and his secretary Wednesday in the Yugoslav Embassy.

Both men surrendered to Swedish police after spending one hour barricaded inside the ambassador's office, where the wounded diplomat was bound and gagged.

A hospital spokesman said the ambassador, Vladimir Rolovic, 55, was wounded twice in the head and once in the right thigh and was in critical condition after emergency surgery to remove two bullets from the head. The secretary, Mira Stemphar, 58, was shot in the chest and was reported in serious condition.

Police identified the gunmen as Adzelko Brajkovic, 23, and Miro Barziko, 21.

Hells Angels Sentenced In Drug Case

Council Bluffs, Iowa (UPI) — Two Carter Lake men labeled as members of the Hells Angels motorcycle gang were sentenced to federal prison terms Wednesday on illegal sale of narcotics convictions.

Dale Haley and Gerald Smith were among three persons arrested last October at Carter Lake. The third, Roger Levell, was listed as a fugitive after jumping bond.

U.S. District Court Judge William C. Hanson denied Haley and Smith bail bonds pending appeal of their convictions. Both were taken to Polk County Jail pending transfer to a federal penitentiary.

The U.S. Attorney's office in Des Moines labeled the three men as members of the "Hells Angels."

Haley was sentenced on four counts of illegal sale of heroin, while Smith was sentenced on five counts of possessing and selling "speed," the U.S. Attorney's office said.

Haley, who was earlier found guilty of conspiracy to violate the narcotics law by a federal jury in Minneapolis, will serve a total of 20 years in prison on both the Minneapolis conviction and Wednesday's rulings in Council Bluffs.

Smith will serve five years in prison after being sentenced by Hanson to five years each to run concurrently on his convictions.

Jury Indicts 23 Members Of Gang For Fraud

Chicago (UP) — A federal grand jury indicted 23 members of the Black P Stone Nation on Wednesday on charges of obtaining money by fraud from a community organization funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The 123-count indictment released Wednesday said the black street gang members obtained money from The Woodlawn Organization —

T.W.O. — through stealing and kickbacks.

It said the OEO paid $927,341 to the community organization on the South Side to conduct a job and still training program and that the gang leaders gained appointments as key staff members of the project.

The indictment charged that the gang leaders systematically stole funds from the program by claiming salaries for teaching duties they did not perform. The salaries ranged between $3,840 and $6,500 a year, it said.

The indictment also contended the leaders recruited other gang members as project trainees and then divided the trainees' salary checks among themselves.

It said the leaders demanded weekly kickbacks from other gang members in the project and threatened the trainees with physical assault unless they turned over their checks.

Eight of the leaders named in the indictment, including reputed gang leader Jeff Fort, 24, already were in police custody.

Seven others, including the gang's alleged No. 2 man, Charles Edward Bey, 26, were arrested Wednesday. The rest were at large.

The Black P Stone Nation is an amalgam of black street gangs headquartered on the South Side near Blackstone Avenue.

It was originally known as the Blackstone Rangers but changed its name a few years ago after it enlarged and incorporated some rival gangs.

The "P" has been said to stand for "power" or "peace."

The alleged misuse of the government grant to T.W.O. was the subject of 1968 U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Harassment, Fraud
Government witnesses told the subcommittee of numerous instances of fraud, forgery and harassment by gang members in the program, which ran from September 1967 to May 1968.

Fort, who was cited for contempt after he walked out of the subcommittee hearing, has been held since December 1970 on charges including attempted murder and narcotics possession.

All the defendants were charged with violating the federal fraud and conspiracy law. Eleven were charged with forging check endorsements and receipts and receiving fraudulently obtained salary checks.

2-Year Probe
William J. Bauer, U.S. District Attorney, said the indictment was the result of a two-year investigation begun after the McClellan hearings.

He said the alleged fraud occurred at only two of the four T.W.O. centers in the Woodlawn area during the period June 2, 1967, and July 15, 1968.

Bond for the defendants ranged from $10,000 to $50,000 each. The case was assigned to Judge Hubert L. Will of U.S. District Court.

Soviet Airlift To Egypt Under Way

... GOLDBERG SAYS 1967 RESOLUTION LIMITED

By The Associated Press

An airlift of Soviet men and arms to Egypt is under way with a buildup of missile power suspected, according to Western diplomatic reports reaching London.

Word of the airlift came Wednesday from diplomats whose governments are presented in Cairo. Increased air shipments, they said, were first detected about seven to 10 days ago.

Informants gave these details:

—Soviet military manpower in Egypt has increased lately by 2,000 men. The authoritative British Institute for Strategic Studies has said about 16,000 were there last year.

—The number of surface-to-air missiles, SAM2s and SAM3s, also have been increased. By how much is not certain. Last month the institute estimated Soviet forces were manning up to 80 SAM3 sites and an unspecified number of SAM2 sites. Now, a vast, new anti-aircraft defense complex has been detected along the Nile Valley from Cairo to the Aswan Dam and along the Mediterranean seaboard as far west as Libya.

—Soviet jet fighter deliveries have been increased along with amphibious trucks and other equipment. The institute estimates Soviet pilots were manning up to 150 MIG21 jets in six controlled airfields last December.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt has said April will be a decisive month for the Middle East. He warns fighting could be resumed if Israel refused to respond favorably to Egypt's peace proposals.

The Middle East cease-fire that went into effect last August was terminated by Egypt last month.

A former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur J. Goldberg, stopping off in London on his way home from a private visit to Israel, contended the United Nations never really considered a total Israeli withdrawal to borders that existed before the 1967 Middle East war.

Status Quo Rejected
Goldberg told a news conference that the key Nov. 22, 1967, United Nations resolution rejected the idea of restoring the prewar status quo.

"There was agreement that 1967, U.N. resolution — which he said he helped draft — makes it something better was required than what existed before," the former ambassador said. "The status quo was rejected. Otherwise we would have adopted the Soviet draft resolution."

The unadopted Soviet resolution specifically called for Israel to withdraw from all Arab territory seized in the 1967 war.

Goldberg said the resolution that was adopted deliberately used vaguer wording. It requested Israel to withdraw from "territories occupied" but did not say "all territories" or "the territories."

U.S. To Hike Aid To Jordan

The New York Times

Washington — The United States intends to increase substantially its military aid to Jordan, including additional modern tanks and possibly four-engine transport planes, administration officials disclosed Wednesday.

These plans were outlined by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird in his reply to a letter from King Hussein, presenting Jordan's long-range military assistance needs.

At the same time, other officials here said the administration would ask Congress for a $45 million grant in military assistance for Jordan in the fiscal year beginning July 1. The figure for the current fiscal year is $30-million.

Expanded military aid to Jordan, begun last year, is in line with the administration's policy to assure Hussein's survival in his continuing confrontation with the Palestinian guerrillas and to discourage a repetition of Syria's movement of troops into Jordan during the civil war last September between the king's forces and the guerrillas.

Officials said the administration's policy had the tacit approval of Israel, which is known to believe that Middle East stability would be enhanced by the elimination of the guerrilla threat.

In his reply to Hussein, Laird said the Jordanian request for additional M60A1 tanks and M16A1 rifles could be met in part immediately from funds already appropriated.

Laird also advised the king that the U.S. would be prepared to discuss with Jordanian representatives the possibility of supplying Jordan with C130 transports from funds for the new fiscal year.

Dietetic Intern Program Slated At St. Elizabeth

St. Elizabeth Health Center will be an affiliate hospital in a new, fully accredited dietetic internship program. St. Elizabeth Executive Director Jack Stiles announced.

The program, initiated by ARA in cooperation with the American Dietetic Association, is the first to be planned by a professional food service management company in cooperation with an established medical center, said John Herron, executive vice president of ARA Hospital Food Management.

St. Elizabeth was asked to participate in the program, Herron said, because of its "unique experience in a totally new convenience food service system."

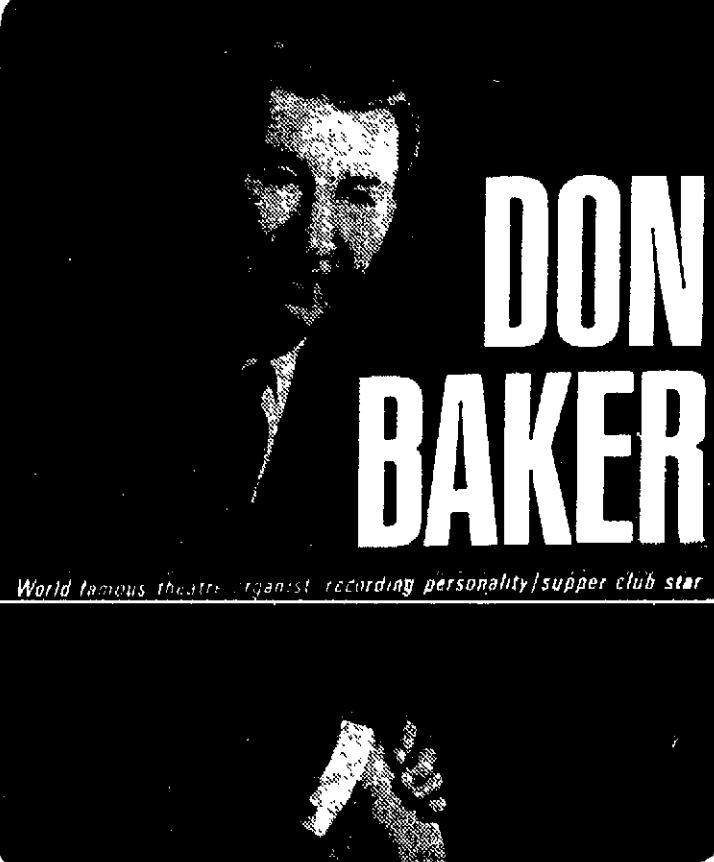

Admission to the dietetic internship program requires a bachelor of science degree, with a major in foods and nutrition or institutional management, with a B average or better preferred.

Did not the U.S. Supreme Court outlaw all job aptitude testing recently? Why are such tests still being used?
—William T. Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The new standard by which companies are to judge aptitude tests is that the test must be related to the applicant's ability to perform the job he is seeking. The high court did not outlaw the use of testing or measuring procedures, saying they obviously are useful. The 1964 Civil Rights Act forbids allowing these tests to be the controlling force unless they are understandably a reasonable measure of job performance.

How do I set my sundial for Daylight Saving Time later this month?
—W.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Thought you were kidding on this one at first.

On April 25th at 2 a.m., you must find some way to physically turn your sundial so as to set it ahead one hour. This could involve uprooting the dial, so be careful not to spoil the level or direction.

Some modern-day sun dials are attached to the base so they can be pivoted when Daylight Saving Time begins and ends.

NSBA President Says Three R's Aren't Enough

Philadelphia (AP) — "America's kids need more than reading, writing and arithmetic if they are to make it in today's changing society. They must be prepared for living."

That's the view and No. 1 educational goal of Kenneth E. Buhrmaster, a balding six-footer named to the presidency of the National School Boards Association. The association represents nearly all of the 90,000 men and women who run public schools in the United States.

"We must expand educational opportunity, so no boy or girl shall be denied the opportunity for higher education or advanced training because of lack of finances," Buhrmaster said in an interview.

He envisions free education for every person age 4 to 20, or through two years of college.

But that takes money, massive amounts of it, at a time when rising federal, state and local taxes are leaving the unhappy wage earner turned off on spending anything more for new ideas in teaching.

"Sure, the price is high," Buhrmaster acknowledges, "but the time has come when we must innovate, experiment and improve our system of education."

"A sound national investment in education will yield rich returns in taxes, cut welfare costs and guarantee the continued growth and perhaps the survival of this nation."

Buhrmaster, 55, is no newcomer to teacher-pupil problems and the always rough job of financing ways to solve them. A businessman and banker, he has served the past 23 years on the Scotia, N.Y., school board in suburban Schenectady and now is president.

WHITE PINK BLUE

RICHMAN GORDMAN 45th and VINE 10 to 10 EVERY DAY 10 to 10 SUNDAY

At an 11 o'clock ceremony on Wednesday morning, April 7, the marriage of Miss Maryann Boumann of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Boumann of Sunnyvale, Calif., to Ronald Wayne Spahni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Spahni of Fremont, was solemnized in the chapel of the Church of the Resurrection in Sunnyvale. The Rev. Father Ferrara read the lines of the service, and five seminarians presented the wedding music.

Miss Maryalce Boumann, wearing a sleeveless frock of pink voile, was the maid of honor and only attendant. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and roses.

Thomas Wekesser of Lincoln, served as best man, and Michael J. Boumann seated the guests.

For the wedding the bride chose a gown of white voile and eyelet embroidery. The embroidery fashioned the high collar and cuffed the Bishop sleeves of the fitted, Empire bodice, and the eyelet motif was repeated in a front panel the full length of the gown. The bell-silhouette skirt was given back interest with accents of the embroidery which also ornamented the chapel train. A halo of Venice lace, dotted with pearls and crystals, held in place the illusion veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Following a honeymoon trip to southern California and Las Vegas Mr. Spahni and his bride will reside at 111 No. 56th St., Apt. 7, in Lincoln.

The bride was graduated last June from the University of Nebraska Teachers College, and now is a member of the Goodrich Junior High School faculty. Mr. Spahni is a graduate of the University of Nebraska from where he also received his Master's degree in educational psychology.

Venture Club

Miss Janell Winsor entertained the members of the Lincoln Venture Club at that group's meeting on Wednesday evening, April 7. The business meeting began at 7:30 o'clock at Miss Winsor's home at 1748 Prospect.

No travel talk this morning — even though there are travelers — and no talk of guests, although we are sure that the Easter weekend will find many of them in Lincoln.

This morning we have parties on our mind—

On Saturday morning, for instance, Mrs. Merlin James, Mrs. John Olsson and her daughter, Miss Sally Olsson, will be hostesses at a 10:30 o'clock brunch at the home of Mrs. Olsson. The party is in pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Carolyn Chapin whose marriage to John C. Hoelscher of St. Louis will be solemnized on Saturday, June 12.

During the morning hours Miss Chapin will be presented with a kitchen-recipe shower.

On the far side of the weekend—Monday — Miss Chapin will again be an honoree when Mrs. Donald Cunningham, Mrs. Dale Tinstman and Mrs. Peggy O'Connor entertain at luncheon at the home of Mrs. Cunningham.

During the informal after-luncheon hours the bride-elect will be presented with a personal shower.

Now we turn our attention to late April—

Invitations were in the mail yesterday for a festive affair planned for Tuesday afternoon, April 27.

MISS DIANA PARISH

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Tyler M. Parish of the engagement of their daughter, Diana Kathleen, to John Prochazka, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Prochazka of Wilber.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Parish is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Towne Club.

Mr. Prochazka was graduated from the University of Missouri, and now is with the forestry service in Salem, Mo.

It's the Lincoln Symphony Guild's new membership tea which is to be held at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Durward Varner. During the tea hours — they begin at 2 o'clock — the Guild will present a check to the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra and there's more — the new Guild officers and the new members of the board are to be presented.

Anyone who may have seen an edition of the San Diego newspaper very recently doubtless was startled to see a picture of a familiar face on one of the pages.

The picture is of Mrs. Howard Wilson, formerly of Lincoln and now of La Jolla, Calif. The story tells of Mrs. Wilson's books, her short stories, all of which Lincoln knows. But what Lincoln doesn't know is that Mrs. Wilson has been appointed a trustee of Pomona College—her alma mater—from which she was graduated.

Mrs. Wilson, who seems to be as popular and as active in LaJolla and its environs as she was in Lincoln. She is a member of the LaJolla Civic Orchestra and Chorus Association; formerly a board member of the La Jolla Museum of Art, and a member of the advisory board of Scripps Memorial Hospital.

A trusteeship is not new in the life of Mrs. Wilson. She served as a trustee of Nebraska Wesleyan University, and also was a trustee of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, and is a honorary member of the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery board.

Chosen As Finalist

Miss Cynthia Ann Raasch, senior at Southeast High School, was named the Soroptimist finalist for the Youth Citizenship Award at the annual event which was held Wednesday evening, April 7.

The finalist's application will be entered in the North Central Regional competition. Also honored at the dinner, which was held at Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker, were two other Lincoln senior girls who competed for the award — Miss Brenda L. Buckley, also of Southeast, and Miss Lilly Ann Coniglio of Pius X.

The dinner program included a resume of the Soroptimist Federation's Youth Citizenship Awards Program which was presented by Mrs. Gertrude A. Bates. Each contestant presented her views on the responsibilities of a citizen of the community and of the world.

LARTA

Four students from the Drama Department of Lincoln High School presented readings and poetry as the program for the Monday morning, April 5, meeting in the Lincoln Area Retired Teachers Association.

Performing at the 10 o'clock meeting held at Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker were juniors Bob Thurber, Landis Magnuson, and Chan Taylor, and senior John Stevens.

The Lincoln High boys octet directed by Ivan Caldwell, presented the musical part of the program.

Books—"Briefing For A Descent Into Hell"

BY INDIRA SINGH

Inner-space fiction, is the best description of Doris Lessing's novel which deals with a harrowing voyage into the uncharted realm of inner man.

The reader is projected into the mind of Professor Charles Watkins, who is doomed to spin endlessly on a raft in the currents of the Atlantic. Finally after landing on a tropical shore, he discovers a stone city and a forest which engulf him in their primeval destiny. Caught in a savage war he is flung into the outer reaches of space among the singing planets.

This wild trip, one realizes, is firmly anchored in the reality of a mental breakdown. Watkins, as a patient in a mental hospital, is an enigma to doctors who try with powerful drugs to subdue his mind's adventure, and to bring him into "controllable range." Over a matter of months, they painfully subject Watkins to an array of medical rituals, which leave him ever more disturbed.

For years Doris Lessing has devoted her energies to bring forth new legislation that would alleviate standards that society sets for the mentally retarded and ill. Therefore her motives in writing this book are extremely clear. Strongly believing that society's treatment of the mentally ill and "broken down" is a dangerous blind spot that has grown too large, she has presented a somewhat valid argument in her novel.

Her protagonist, Professor Watkins, is a symbol of the sensitive person who favours not to accept the standards of norm. With the realization of an overpowering truth in hand, he wants no part of the game that society sets forth. He feels it unnecessary to be involved in a rat race that deals with disguised messengers, untruths, double dealings, and deliberate killings. He creates his own myths, and ends up as a blemish to society. In his journal he writes, "It is only in love and war that we escape from the sleep of necessity, the cage of ordinary life, to a state where every day is a high adventure, every moment falls sharp and clear like a snowflake . . . or a leaf spinning down to the forest floor." The irony in the novel lies in the fact that Watkins' wife, friends, and colleagues during his "illness" reveal their insecurity, and envy, over the issue that a man would be completely honest with himself.

Doris Lessing's style is however, somewhat dubious, and at times the novel seems like a reading game. Too many interpretations are left up to the reader, and many pages are filled with attitudes of apologetic embarrassment.

The line between sanity and insanity is easily divisible. Civilizations that preach norm, classify the sane person as one who accepts the average. Those endowed with sensitivity, non-conformist attitudes, and those who perceive the awe that goes beyond organization and understand the grief of humanity, are the ones tainted by society.

Deliberately it seems, we choose to shut out those who can no longer afford the luxury to live in acceptance, of a civilization that intensely dehumanizes existence.

Books in demand in Lincoln this week are,

5. Briefing for a Descent into Hell, Lessing and fills in with sweaters and pants wherever she may be.

Not shorts, though.

"I would feel foolish. I guess it's a sign of age," said Miss Russell, who is 58. "I think exhibitionism in women is wrong over 40 — no, over 35. I just don't find it amazing."

"You have to keep abreast of the times for your own morale, but you look it all over and you find what is becoming to you in fashion. That's what being chic means."

For herself, being chic means eschewing ruffles and baby dresses—she says she simply isn't the type.

When she gets to Paris this spring, she does plan to indulge herself. She's going to get some Chanel suits.

"Freddy (her husband of 30 years, Frederick Brisson, the producer), brought me some 15 years ago when he started those negotiations with Chanel about doing a play on her life."

"I never bought again because, you know, people would never believe I paid for them, but now that it's all over, I want some last ones, just to have."

July Bride-Elect Is Party Honoree

It was a reunion of sorts when a group of former Nebraska Wesleyan University classmates gathered at the home of Mrs. Gale Anderson and her daughter, Miss Sally Anderson, to shower a friend with pre-wedding gifts.

The guest of honor at the miscellaneous shower, which was held Tuesday afternoon, April 6, was Miss Merrie E. Knight of Middletown, N.J., who is the July 17 bride-elect of John E. Crawford of Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Knight is the daughter of former Wesleyan Chancellor and Mrs. John L. Knight who now reside in Washington, D.C., where the former chancellor is president of the Wesley Theological Seminary.

The bride-to-be and her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Crawford of Colorado Springs, Colo., were both graduated from Wesleyan, and she is now teaching in Middletown.

Election Is Held

The Faculty Women's Newcomers Club is an organization dedicated to the purpose of introducing new women faculty members and wives of new instructors at the University of Nebraska to the community — and to one another.

The club's year has just about come to an end, and, as is proper and fitting, new officers were named for the coming year.

Elected at the meeting on Tuesday evening, April 6, were Mrs. Lowell Moser, president; Mrs. William Ahlschwede, vice president; Mrs. William Sesnow, secretary; and Mrs. Dennis Gutz, treasurer.

The Rosalind Russell Era

BY BERNADINE MORRIS

(c) New York Times Service

New York — Betty Grable's legs. Rita Hayworth's curves. Veronica Lake's hair. Rosalind Russell's clothes. All famous cinema landmarks of the 1940s.

Thirty years later, the clothes are in the limelight again.

And what does Miss Russell, the acknowledged clothes horse of the forties (and of the fifties and the sixties, too, for that matter), think about the revival?

Frankly, not very much.

"I think the clothes were horrible," she said.

"When you look back on them, they were so very effort-y," she explains. "Those shoulders padded out so far they could ride around as if they had a life of their own — things are much more natural today."

"When I think of what we did to hair . . ." she shudders as she recalls the pompadour, one of her more enduring trade-marks.

"In every picture, I would tell the hairdresser to get it higher and higher so it would look different. Then we started to dip it to the side. We lacquered it with something like glue — it was before hair spray, you know."

Her hair today, only faintly streaked with gray, is still swept high over her forehead, but it looks soft, not lacquered.

She wears a navy blue jersey dress with blue denim boots in her suite at the Waldorf-Towers, and talks of fashion past and present, and other subjects.

Her fund-raising efforts for arthritis research is one of those other subjects. She was struck by the disease a year ago and managed to beat it back.

Then there's her newest picture, "Mrs. Pollifax — Spy," which will open in New York next month ("no fashion news — just store-bought clothes").

She reminisces awhile about a brief stint modeling dresses at Saks Fifth Avenue in the early 1930s.

Eventually, she gets back to the fashions of the forties, and decides there was something good about them. "They had an aliveness and humor and that's a good thing," she said. "At the time, we thought the clothes were great. I used to buy those jazzy pin-striped suits Irene made for me in the films by the carload—they were my idea of heaven."

"And the evening things were lovely to wear, with their bare backs and halter necklines in clinging jerseys and satins."

Why did she think fashion was now returning to the forties?

"I suppose because of the longer skirt, and a hankering back to tradition," she began thoughtfully.

"You must remember that the leading women were able to wear clothes. We had Clara and Rita and Joan and Paulette—they all looked marvelous in clothes. They could wear them when they had leading men like Errol and Cary and Clark. That all disappeared when the sweatshirt actor came into the business and everybody wore dungarees."

She buys James Galano's styles twice a year at Amelia Gray, a shop in Beverly Hills,

It is truly amazing how false eyelashes can bring out the beauty of the eyes and give the entire face a lift. It is the next best thing to a real face lift. Even those women who have not worn false lashes have, no doubt, noticed how much they improve the appearance of others.

Today the strip false eyelashes are easier than ever to apply, mainly because an automatic lash applicator is available. However, there are many women who still find them difficult or impossible to put on. I think more women would like to wear false lashes, at least on special occasions, except for this. Therefore, I thought it would be interesting to talk with Jean Kane, that fabulous expert who applies lashes individually, one by one, gluing each hair to the client's own lash. With care, these lashes last from three to six weeks.

Women beat a path to her New York studio. Among them are actresses, models, and those prominent in social and public life. However, her country, from all walks of life, and for many different reasons.

The majority of them just want their lashes to look thicker and a little longer, but natural. Some are teenagers and others are grandmothers.

Jean says that many older women have discovered that false eyelashes light up the face, and with very little other makeup, draw attention away from wrinkles. Sometimes doctors send a patient to Jean Kane. She told me about one instance in which a young woman had pulled out all of her lashes during an extremely grievous emotional experience. Naturally, afterwards, she was very unhappy about her appearance. As soon as possible Miss Kane applied the false lashes to the natural stubs, continuing this process until the girl's own lashes were again normal length.

On a client's first visit Jean observes her facial structure, the depth of her eye sockets and the size and placement of her eyes to decide what lash design will be best for her. I asked her about the drooping upper lids so many older women have. She discussed this and the deep-set eye. I think my readers would profit by using these same ideas when applying mascara.

When there are eye folds or the eyes are deep-set, the lashes at the outer corners of the eyes should not be long or abundant (light on the mascara if any). Slightly curled lashes are flattering to the woman who has deep-set eyes. In the case of bulging eyes, the lashes should be longer at the outer corners of the eyes and shorter across the centers. If you have this problem, perhaps you should apply mascara only to the lashes on the outer third or half of the upper lids.

Q. I have heard that if a woman is serene during pregnancy, the baby will have a happy disposition and be a calm child. Is this true?

A. No. There is no connecting nervous system between the mother and the fetus. Nerves connect the mother with the uterus but not with the baby.

Q. I can't use any creams on my face. I break out in a rash. The only thing I can use is olive oil! What can I do?

A. Try one of the cosmetic lines planned especially for women who are allergic to the usual products. There are several splendid ones. If any of my readers would like to have the names of these, send a stamped, self addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Abby: blackmail

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 16. She is marrying the boy she went steady with all thru high school. He is 19. We are managing the wedding but must limit the number of guests to 125 because my husband has been out of work and we are not in very good shape financially.

I told the groom's mother that she could invite 63 and we were inviting 62. She said that wasn't nearly enough for her as she is presently separated from her husband and she wants to invite her boyfriend and his family, which is very large. I told her in a nice way that she could invite whomever she wanted but not more than 63 people as we had to hold down the expense.

Guess what she said? "Either I have as many people as I want or I'll refuse to sign for my son!"

Abby, he is only 19 and he can't get married unless she signs for him. So what do I do now?

SAD MOM

DEAR MOM: Don't let her blackmail you. In some states the signature of only one parent (or guardian) is sufficient. Look into it. Also tell the lady (?) that if she wants to pay for her own guests she may have as many as she wants.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never empties his pockets when he changes, and as a result of his negligence, I have ruined two of his watches and destroyed important papers that were in his wallet and ended up in my washer.

He says I should always look thru the pockets before putting anything in the machine. I say, he should have enough common sense to take care of his personal belongings, and if he is so careless and stupid as to leave things in his pockets, it's not my fault. Who is correct?

—JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Not you, Lady.

The bidding:
South Pass West Pass North 1♥ East Dble
3♦ Pass Pass Pass Dble
Opening lead — jack of spades.

There are plays in bridge that many experienced players have never heard of, much less seen, and while it is true that most of them have little practical value, they are nonetheless fascinating to both the connoisseur and the everyday player.

A typical example is the play known as the steppingstone squeeze, illustrated by this hand from a rubber bridge game.

South got to three diamonds doubled and West led the jack of spades. East won dummy's queen with the ace and cashed the A-K of hearts in that order before returning a low spade to dummy's king. When declarer then ran off five trump tricks, this became the position:

North ♠ 9 4 ♣ K 10	East ♥ 7 6 ♣ A J
West Immaterial	South ♠ 8 ♥ 5 ♦ 5 6

South now cashed his last trump, discarding the ten of clubs from dummy, and East was in trouble. He could not afford to discard a spade — for in that case declarer would be able to overtake his eight of spades with the nine and cash the four — so East discarded the jack of clubs instead.

Declarer thereupon cashed the eight of spades and exited with the six of clubs, forcing East to win with the ace and return a spade, in that way providing a steppingstone to dummy's nine of spades. So South made three diamonds doubled.

Of course, a club lead by West at trick one would have rendered the contract dead, but then South would not have had the steppingstone squeeze to talk about.

The occasion was a miscellaneous shower for Miss Janet Harris, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Lintt and the late Dr. Stanley Harris, but the food and decorations were very much

F14 Maker Encounters Cost Overruns

Washington (AP) — The Grumman Corp. was reported Wednesday to be running into production problems and cost overruns in the $9-billion program to develop the F14 fighter plane — the Navy successor to the ill-fated F111B.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim disclosed Grumman, of Bethpage, N.Y., has written the Navy concerning what it "perceives to be some future cost problems" with the swing-jet designed to fly from aircraft carriers beginning in early 1973.

Friedheim declined to go into details, but Pentagon sources said the price per plane now is estimated at least $1 million above the $11.5-million figure cited in December by Navy Secretary John H. Chafee.

Up $700 Million

With the Navy planning to buy 722 planes, this could add more than $700 million to the project and bring the over-all price to more than $9 billion.

Grumman's money problems are almost certain to bring inquiries in Congress, Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard is already scheduled to discuss the F14 project on Capitol Hill next week.

Boeing Still Listening To SST Money Plans

Washington (UPI) — The Boeing Co. said Wednesday it still is listening to proposals to finance the supersonic transport (SST) without government funds.

When Congress killed the $1.3 billion project last month, Boeing — the firm picked to build the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane — indicated that private industry could not finance the project on its own.

But a spokesman for the aerospace firm said Wednesday that "if a sound financing plan could be developed, we would participate."

One of the leaders in the drive to work out a new financing formula is President Thomas G. Uhl of Fairchild Hiller, largest subcontractor on the project.

Uhl has been conferring with banking interests and other aerospace firms, a spokesman for Fairchild Hiller said.

Boeing said the company was "cooperating in efforts to develop alternative financing details."

Trouble with the F14 is the latest in a series of problems plaguing the aerospace industry in developing new planes for the military.

The Navy contracted for the F14 after cancelling in 1968 its contract for the F111B, labeled a "fiscal blunder" by Congress. The Air Force version of the F111 is operational now following a long and costly series of mechanical problems.

Recalls Lockheed Woes

The Grumman letter recalled a letter a year ago from Lockheed asking the Pentagon for several hundred million dollars in financial help to avert bankruptcy threatened by problems involving the C5 jumbo transport and three other major weapons systems.

In some respects, the Grumman and Lockheed problems are similar in that both involve fixed-price contracts which Friedheim stressed were let before the Nixon administration took office.

"It's not a fly-before-you-buy contract," Friedheim said, referring to the F14 contract and new Pentagon procedures requiring complete testing of prototype models before ordering production.

Although the F14 had its origins in the Johnson administration, the major moves toward development have come since being given serious consideration.

Rewrite Contract

Among its options, Friedheim said the Navy could rewrite the F14 contract or cut back on the number of planes to be ordered to slash the over-all costs. Officials indicated a reduced buy is being given serious consideration.

The crash of the first test aircraft on its second flight in December set back the F14 program by six months, Robert A. Frosch, assistant secretary of the Navy for research and development, told Congress Tuesday.

Asked why Frosch didn't mention Grumman's money problems in his testimony, Friedheim replied, "the information just became available to the Navy, and perhaps it was not available at the time he prepared his testimony."

East Pakistani Leaders Said Held

●The New York Times

New York — Pakistani forces have succeeded in rounding up the entire top leadership of the East Pakistani independence movement, according to first-hand information reaching New York.

The source of the information was a prominent man in a high-level position from a Western country who spent the last three weeks of March in Dacca, the East Pakistani capital, where the army moved to reassert the military government's control on March 25. His exceptional opportunities to follow developments there included contacts with the leaders of the Awami League, headed by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

As evidence of Mujib's arrest, the Western source cited the fact that his voice had not been heard on the broadcasts of transmitters identifying themselves as voices of liberation. In any event, he added, there is no doubt that Mujib's associates in the leadership, about 100 in all, have all disappeared.

It is impossible to say, he went on, whether these leaders have been executed or are being held in secret jails. Earlier this week, reports from Karachi said that Mujib was being held in West Pakistan.

In the view of the Westerner, the arrest of Mujib and his aides may be the Pakistani government's most important success thus far in its effort to reassert and maintain its authority over the east.

But, he said, the passions aroused by the military action in the province have created a situation that could lead to an eventual "major disaster," even if Pakistani troops manage to restore order for the time being.

The Pakistani government, which has long asserted that its troops are in control of the province and dealing with pockets of "miscreants," acknowledged that it had had to send aircraft into action in the northern part of the province. The Indian government said through a spokesman earlier this week that it had information indicating that Mujib's supporters were in control in that area.

U.S. Registers Concern Over W. Pakistani Action

(C) Washington Star

Washington — The United States has made its first move to disassociate itself from the West Pakistani army suppression of the hostile civilian population of East Pakistan.

Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, in a half-hour meeting here Monday afternoon with Pakistani Ambassador Agha Hilaly, registered official concern at the reported army use of American military equipment against the East Pakistanis.

U.S. Ambassador to Pakistan

Joseph S. Farland has been instructed to make a similar statement to the Pakistani foreign minister in Islamabad.

And Wednesday, the State Department said normal life in East Pakistan had been "seriously disrupted."

Press officer Charles W. Bray said, "We continue to believe that it is important that every feasible step be taken to end the conflict and achieve a peaceful accommodation."

Bray said the evacuation of private American citizens, U.S. employees and their dependents had been completed.

The number was just over 500, Bray said, but there are approximately 200 Americans still in Pakistan.

Now that the possible threat of the well being of Americans in Pakistan was relieved, Bray said the U.S. government felt itself able to "categorize more completely the official attitude toward events there."

Asked whether consideration was being given to suspending American economic aid to Pakistan, Bray said it was "safe to assume" that ongoing programs were being "looked at" as the situation develops in Pakistan.

In the meeting Monday, it was understood that Sisco stressed American willingness to take part in an international relief effort for East Pakistan, as suggested last week by U.N. Secretary General U. Thant.

But the Pakistani government has not picked up the offer.

Hilaly told the Washington Star Tuesday that food and other supplies are sufficient in the province, and that "there is no question of asking for an international effort there."

China Charges India Interferes

New Delhi (UPI) — Communist China broke its silence on the civil war in East Pakistan Wednesday, charging India with interfering in Pakistani affairs by supporting the separatist movement in the east.

The Indian foreign ministry rejected the protest as unwarranted, but the official All-India Radio for the first time Wednesday referred to East Pakistan by its separatist name, East Bengal.

The Chinese protest, which was delivered in written form to the Indian foreign ministry, was the first official Peking government statement on the civil war that began two weeks ago.

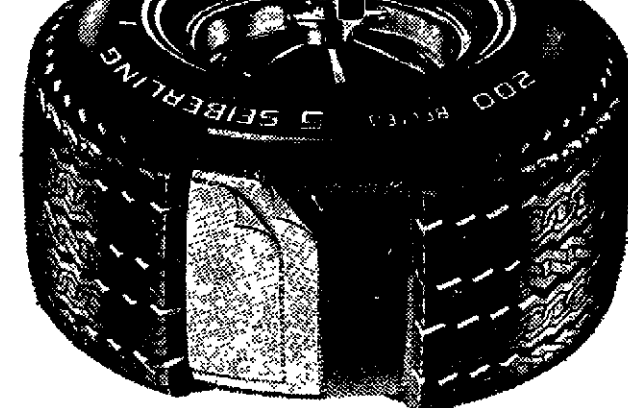

The protest followed an appeal earlier this week by Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny to Pakistani President A. M. Yahya Khan to end the bloodshed in East Pakistan. Yahya responded to Podgorny that the Soviet Union has no right to advise his government on internal matters.

Junkyard Control Measure Advanced

By United Press International
The Legislature gave first round approval to a junkyard control bill Wednesday without which officials say Nebraska could lose up to 10% of its federal highway funds.
The lawmakers sent the bill (LB394) over its first floor hurdle on a 33-3 vote. Sponsor is Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance.
The bill would require the State Health Department to license junkyards and require yards located along the state's major highways be screened from view if within 1,000 feet of the road.
State Engineer Thomas Doyle said the bill would bring Nebraska into compliance with federal regulations on junkyard control. He added without the law the federal administration has indicated 10% of the state's highway money would be withheld.

"I think it's something that is clear," Doyle said, "if we're going to continue to receive our share of federal money, we're going to have to comply."
Under the present allocation formula, 10% of Nebraska's federal highway funds amounts to $3 million.
Threat Not Immediate
Doyle said the cutoff threat is not an immediate one, but said the federal administration could invoke a deadline at any time. However, present indications are, he said, compliance would be required by the middle of next year.
But the state engineer said it would be better to get the law on the books as soon as possible.

Under the bill the state would pay for screening from view those yards now within the 1,000 foot limit, Doyle said, but added the important thing is to prevent more from being built within the limit.
"The longer we wait, the more it's going to cost," he said.
Future Yards
If enacted, future yards could not be located within the limit unless screened from view at the owner's expense.
Stull said the estimated two-year cost of the program would be $2.5 million. Three-fourths of the cost would be paid by the federal government and the remainder would come from the Roads Department cash fund.

Doyle noted the state will also be required in the future to pass a law on billboard control along the major highways, but added that would probably not be requested from the Legislature until the next session.
Both are part of the federal highway beautification act passed by Congress in 1968, the engineer said.
Guard Defects
Lubeck, Germany (UPI) — A 21-year-old East German border guard disarmed two other soldiers patrolling with him and fled across the border to West Germany, West German frontier officials said.

Senators Advance Sale Of Liquor On Election Day

The Legislature gave first round approval Wednesday to a bill which would allow the sale of liquor on election day.
The lawmakers gave a 30-6 initial approval to the bill (LB916), sponsored by Lincoln Sen. Wallace Barnett.
The bill would also abolish the provision which prohibits the holder of a liquor license from serving as a judge or clerk of an election.

School Costs Shift Is Advanced

A proposed constitutional amendment which could shift $136 million in school costs from local property taxes to the state's sales-income tax base was advanced to the floor of the Legislature Wednesday.
The bill, LB730, provides that the state would pay salary costs for all local public school teachers, administrators and other employees.
It cleared the Nebraska Retirement Systems Advisory Committee on a 4-1 vote.
If it were eventually approved by the Legislature and adopted by voters in the 1972 election, the proposal could increase the state sales tax rate by 2% and the personal income tax levy by 10%.

Whitney said he sponsored the bill as a means of solving local property tax problems and in order to spur school consolidation.
The cost shift would raise annual state aid to public schools to $171 million. That would place 66% of public school costs on the state's tax base, Whitney said.
LB730 was opposed at the public hearing by the Nebraska State Education Association.

Packing day. We are bound for blue Hawaii. (Aloha deh, keeds. Howzit?)

"Father, can I have a dollar?"

"No chance. Beat it."

The Clay Pigeon of Shady Acres is flying high.

She said: "I only wanted the dollar to buy some things to make you a Father's Day present."

"Oh. All right — here."

The Pigeon rose gracefully, but the gunner had him in her sights.

It's not the hips, her lovely hula hips, keep your eyes on the hands . . .

I said: "Remember. This is only for two weeks. Do not pack as though we were moving over for a year."

The moppets said: "You mean we can't take our things?"

I said: "I mean you cannot stuff extra bags with rock collections and Snoopy pillows and a lot of other useless things."

Have to watch it or we'd have a dozen items. Everything at last minute is stuffed in a flight bag.

"Oh good heavens! I forgot the portable iron! Wait. I'll get it and put it in a flight bag."

Soon we have several flight bags. Who carries these on and off the plane, dear? The Beast of Burden of Shady Acres.

I had a little ready I'd been keeping in my foxy pocket. So I went out and bought some race track clothes.

Not much, you understand. Just enough to preserve the image.

The house wren said: "How much did you pay for all that? I thought you said we had to conserve to pay for our trip."

I said: "Is that why you went out and bought two new dresses?"

She said: "I'm conserving this month. We don't have to pay for them until next month."

Some blokes would have blown a fuse—this kid really should go to work for the economic division of the U.S. Government. She has the same kind of thinking.

I remained calm. I said: "Hand me that new shirt. The one with the red and white daisies."

She said: "You can't wear that. We're going out to dinner."

I said: "Stand aside, chick. Your jealousy is showing." (The Bird of Paradise of Shady Acres!)

"Dum-de-dum, my wahine and me . . ." I have short-time fever. Let me get under that coco palm by the blue sea. Barefoot and relaxed. Don't call us, we'll call you.

She said: "You're not taking that guitar?"

I said: "I think I can get it in the overhead. We're on a 747 with the overhead compartments."

5 Patrolmen Recipients Of Citations

By United Press International

State Patrol Col. James E. Kruger announced Wednesday five patrolmen have received the "Superintendent's Citation for Meritorious Service" award.

Kruger said the award is designed to show appreciation to those employees who have participated in any action or performance of an outstanding nature.

The following received the award for their aid in rescuing several people from the flood waters in February: Sgt. Leonard Oberg, Sgt. Donald Morris, Cpl. Faye Robeson and Trooper Donald Greiser.

The four were aboard the patrol's helicopter, which participated in rescue operations.

Trooper Gurney Pittenger also received the award, for his actions during the flooding along the Platte River.

176,000 Crimes In West Berlin

Berlin (AP) — More than 176,000 crimes were reported in West Berlin in 1970, 10.7% more than in 1969, according to a city government official.

Thefts made up 64.5% of the crimes as compared with 58.9% in 1969.

Narcotics offenses also showed an alarming increase over the year, with 636 arrests for drug peddling, almost twice as many as in 1969, the official said.

Radicals Gain Four Seats On Berkeley Council

By The Associated Press
A group of self-styled radicals, gaining a 4-4 deadlock on the Berkeley (Calif.) City Council, said Wednesday it would try to appoint a colleague to gain full control of the university town's government.

The radical candidates won three of the four contested seats on Berkeley's nine-man council in Tuesday's election.

The election of a mayor who pledged to vote with them produced the radical-moderate standoff on the council. One seat is vacant.

Police Split Nixed
A proposal by the radicals to split Berkeley's Police Department into three departments—controlled by black, white and student neighborhoods—was overwhelmingly rejected Tuesday by voters who also put into office a black mayor who supports the radicals.

An estimated 80% of the voters in Berkeley went to the polls in the hard-fought contest that saw Councilman Warren Widener, who supported the radical coalition, elected as the city's first black mayor.

Widener defeated a moderate Negro, Vice Mayor Wilmont Sweeney, by 56 votes—21,921 to 21,865. Sweeney said Wednesday he would ask for a recount.

A moderate was elected to the fourth vacant council seat, creating the 4-4 radical-moderate makeup. A ninth seat, now vacant and previously occupied by Widener, must be filled by the new council. The radical coalition hopes to get control of this seat.

"We Will Have Change"
"The people of this city have decided it's not going to be business as usual anymore. The city said we want change and we will have change," said Ira T. Simmons, 28, a black attorney and one of the three new radical councilmen.

One of the radicals' first objectives will be an effort to bring the City Council under greater community control, despite the defeat of the police proposal.

Edward Kallgren, a white attorney, was the top vote getter among the 33 candidates for the four council seats. He describes himself as an independent liberal.

"There was obviously no radical takeover of Berkeley," he said. "The April Coalition people have been characterized as radicals, but as far as their goals and ideals are concerned, they're not that radical."

Platform
The radical platform called for the division of the Police Department into three community-controlled units, new city services for the poor including rent control on apartments and free child day care centers, and imposition of a city tax on income over $12,000 to replace the property tax.

Widener endorsed all but the police partition plan though he supported greater community control over the police.

Widener, 33, succeeds retiring

Mayor Wallace Johnson. The mayor is a voting member of the nine-man council, but the mayor's job is largely ceremonial.

Widener and the three elected radical candidates, averaging age 29, said they would fight for appointment of the top runner, Rick Brown, 28, a University of California graduate student.

Kallgren, who had the support of both moderates and conservatives, said he had not decided whether to vote to appoint Brown to the council.

Resolution Urges Ecology Efforts
The Legislature Wednesday adopted a resolution calling on Nebraskans to join in efforts to improve the environment.

The resolution, offered by Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder, noted that Gov. J. J. Exon has proclaimed April as Nebraska Environmental Month.

He stresses the need for handwashing before and during food preparation, particularly before and after handling raw meat, as well as after any interruptions for other household chores.

Clean Hands Aid Family's Health

New York (UPI) — You can help insure your family's health by keeping your hands clean when handling food, according to Joseph Rosenfeld, supervisor of foodhandler education for the New York City Health Department.

He stresses the need for handwashing before and during food preparation, particularly before and after handling raw meat, as well as after any interruptions for other household chores.

Legislature Adjourns For Easter

By The Associated Press
Nebraska's Legislature completed its 60th legislative day Wednesday and closed up shop at 3:30 p.m. for a five-day Easter recess.

The lawmakers will reconvene at 9 a.m. next Tuesday to embark on the final one-third of a session limited by the constitution to 90 legislative days, unless 40 of the 49 senators agree to extend it.

At a brief windup afternoon session Wednesday, delayed 20 minutes at the start by the absence of a quorum, senators advanced 10 relatively non-controversial bills from general file.

One of the bills, LB728, requires a five-day wait between the time a marriage license is applied for and the time the license is issued.

Sen. Roland Laedike of Lincoln, the sponsor, said the requirement of a blood test for venereal disease formerly served as an indirect waiting period, because it formerly took up to three days to receive the test results. Nowadays the test results can quickly be obtained, and the waiting period needs to be written into law, he said.

LB728 was advanced on a 25-7 vote.

Another bill given first-round approval in amended form, LB633, affects Nebraskans who failed to get their motor vehicles reinspected by the due date. The bill permits an arrested person to absolve himself if he obtains the inspection sticker within five days of the arrest, excluding holidays, unless the delinquency has extended for a period longer than 30 days.

Bourne Is Named To Merit System

Gov. J. James Exon Wednesday announced the appointment of Dr. Richard Bourne of Lincoln to a three-year term on the Nebraska Joint Merit System.

Bourne is a professor of personnel and management at the University of Nebraska. The merit system serves to meet federal requirements for personnel administration for eight federal grant-in-aid state agencies and offices.

Bill To Limit Amount Wages May Be Attached Advances

The Legislature's Labor Committee Wednesday sent to the Unicameral a bill which would establish a ceiling on the amount of an employee's wages which could be attached for a creditor.

The action was taken during a committee executive session called by committee Chairman Sen. Harold Moylan of Omaha to act on several bills held by the committee.

The committee approved LB781, Callaway Sen. J. James

Waldron's bill to limit attachment of wages.

The bill was developed by Pat Carr, a University of Nebraska law student.

As proposed, the bill would limit to 15% of an employee's wages the amount which could be attached for any one creditor.

Also sent to the floor by the committee was LB859 which would allow state employees to be reimbursed for parking fees paid while on state business.

Another bill advanced was LB822, a measure to raise the pay rate for judges of the State Court of Industrial Relations.

However, the committee amended the bill to raise the compensation rate from $50 to $75 per day. The original raise as proposed by the bill's sponsor, Omaha Sen. David Stahmer, was to $150 per day.

Ticket Crackdown

Cleveland (UPI) — Police reported their crackdown on delinquent parking tickets during the month of March netted the city nearly $17,200. The "most-wanted" violator was a 21-year-old woman who had to pay $635 in fines for 81 tickets.

Textbook Lending Bill OKd As Amendment

By The Associated Press
A bill designed to give a financial boost to parochial schools in the form of textbook assistance was rewritten by the Legislature's Education Committee Wednesday into a constitutional amendment proposal.

The amended measure, LB659, was sent to the floor then on a 5-0 vote.

As originally drafted by former Gov. Robert B. Crosby of Lincoln for the Nebraska Catholic Conference, the bill would have permitted public school districts to lend secular textbooks without charge to nonpublic school students in grades 7 through 12. The lending school districts would receive reimbursements through a new provision in the state school aid law.

Opponents of the bill, at a public hearing last month, questioned its constitutionality in view of the prohibition against using public money for private schools. But backers said the bill was patterned after a New York law which has been upheld in the highest New York court and the U.S. Supreme Court.

At a committee executive session Wednesday afternoon, a motion first was made to send the original bill to the floor. It needed five approving votes, but got only four.

Moving to advance LB659 were Sens. Don Elrod of Grand Island, Orval Snyder of Papillion and Duke Snyder and George Syas of Omaha. Sens. Gerald A. Stromer of Kearney and Ellen Craft of North Platte abstained, and Sens. Wally Barnett Jr. and William Swanson, both of Lincoln, were absent.

An ensuing motion to amend the bill into the form of a constitutional amendment, submitting the textbook aid question to voters, carried 5-0 and the amended bill was reported out on the same vote. Elrod, Stromer, Keyes, Snyder and Syas voted "aye" and Mrs. Craft abstained.

Legislature Revives Space Tax Bill

The Legislature Wednesday overruled its Revenue Committee and revived a proposed 1% space tax on hotel and motel rooms to fund tourist promotion programs.

The bill, LB650, chiefly sponsored by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, had been killed in committee by a 5-2 vote.

But Luedtke's motion to revive the measure for later consideration on the floor prevailed on a 30-11 vote.

Revenue Chairman Rudolf Kokes of Ord joined in support of Luedtke's proposal.

LB650 could raise as much as $500,000 a year for tourist promotion activities, Luedtke said.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton opposed the bill, arguing that it would "fragment" the state's sales and income tax base.

Tourist promotion should be financed from the state's general fund, he said.

Two Bills Passed On Final Reading

Two noncontroversial bills were passed on final reading in the Legislature Wednesday:

—Increasing from $1 to $3 the fee collected by district court clerks for forwarding certain information to the register of deeds in foreclosure cases. LB495 Moyer 47-0.

—Repealing obsolete sections of law related to interest on installment paper. LB684 (E) Johnson, Hasebroock 46-0.

Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha said the space tax would be an added tax for Nebraskans since about 80% of hotel and motel users are citizens of the state rather than out-of-state visitors.

Luedtke told Burbach LB650 should be revived as "a safety valve" which could be used for tourism financing if the Legislature does not provide sufficient funding in its general fund budget allocations.

Most Tourists Overlook This Historic City

Sulmona, Italy (UPI) — Few tourists ever stop to look at them, but a few miles from this town in the Abruzzi Mountains are the ruins of a city that challenged ancient Rome.

It was a provincial town called Corfinium, which Italian city-states revoking against Roman rule chose as their capital in 90 B.C. and renamed Italica. The Romans subdued it a few years later.

School Aid Study Asked

The Legislature Wednesday was asked to study the effectiveness of state aid to schools and what changes could be made in local district financing as a result of the state aid program.

The study request was made in a resolution offered by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly. It was laid over one day.

Warner is the sponsor of a bill to increase state aid from $35 million to $89 million annually.

Warner's resolution asked that an interim study committee be set up to look at the question of state aid, begun three years ago.

Another resolution offered Wednesday would wish success to The Courier, new student newspaper at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus.

Car Ownership Up

Washington — Nearly 80% of U.S. households own an automobile and 29% own two or more.

Woman Is Mayor Of Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City (AP) — Patience Lattin was elected mayor, making Oklahoma City the most populous city in the nation with a woman in the post.

Oklahoma City's population is approximately 363,225.

In her campaign Mrs. Lattin, wife of oilman Trimble Lattin, focused on issues involving the Oklahoma City Housing Authority, the city building code, conflict of interest legislation and distribution of architectural and engineering contracts.

Teachers Find Job-Hunting Is A Problem

Omaha (AP) — Drove of teachers are hunting jobs in the Omaha area this spring. The demand for jobs in some school districts exceeds the supply 15 to one. At Omaha more than 2,000 persons have applied for 400 jobs. Last year, 1,600 applied. Asst. Supt. Ron Anderson said the majority have degrees from Nebraska colleges and universities. But District 66 Asst. Supt. Robert Adams reported applications from the West and East Coasts, as well as from Iowa and South Dakota. The Westside Community Schools have about 1,500 candidates for 85 or 90 prospective jobs. Is Business Booming? Financial pages of the "Sunday Journal and Star" tell you. All Signs In Southwest Point To Major Drouth

Dallas (AP) — All the marks of a major drought have become visible in the Southwest, a survey showed. And the outlook for rain to save crops and grass is dim.

The signs everyone understands are the dust storms, wheat already dead on the ground and rows of cattle waiting to be fed from trucks instead of scattering to graze on spring grasses.

The signs the weathermen understand are rainfall totals — one-tenth of normal in some places.

The San Antonio, Tex., Union Stock Yards reported Monday the largest cattle run of the year — about 4,300. Cattlemen said ranchers are depleting their herds for grazing because there is no vegetation for grazing and there is little water for the animals to drink.

Farmers are talking about the Dust Bowl conditions of the 1930s — although the situation really isn't that bad. Or they are recalling the severe years of the 1950s when land was abandoned and many farmers lined up for federal food for their families.

"We're just sitting here waiting, wondering whether we'll be forced to sell the cattle," said James Hackler, who operates a farm and ranch at Childress near the southeast corner of the Texas Panhandle.

'Pretty Desperate'

George Gregg, Albuquerque National Weather Service meteorologist, said the moisture situation is "pretty desperate" in southern New Mexico.

In Oklahoma, farmers walk through their wheat fields and the dusty, brittle plants — which should be green — crack and break like old straw.

The drought at this stage involves major portions of Oklahoma, parts of New Mexico, nearly all of Texas, much of Arizona and a part of southern California.

Sufficient Snow

The second tier of states to the north generally is in good shape because of sufficient snow.

With small grain crops such as wheat, oats and rye in serious to critical shape, farmers are looking ahead to planting cotton and grain sorghum, a big money crop. But there is not enough moisture-subsoil or near the surface — for these plants to germinate unless heavy rains come.

And, adds Robert Orton, Texas climatologist for the Weather Service, "The 30-day outlook is not encouraging."

The reason for the dry weather?

Gulf Moisture

Jeter Pruett, U.S. meteorologist for North Texas, says that everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains — even in New England moisture comes from the Gulf of Mexico.

"During the past several months," said Pruett, "the circulation systems — high and low pressure areas — that move eastward have not dug south sufficiently deep to set up streams of air from the gulf into the Southwest."

Marvin Miller, a grain elevator operator at Hobart, Okla., said prospects are the worst since 1951.

"We handled 190,000 bushels of wheat that year," said Miller. "Usually we handle up to 1.7 million bushels."

Cattlemen not only are hauling hay and other feed to their cattle, but here and there they are hauling water, too.

City people, however, are not in the desperate situation of the 1950s where in Dallas, for instance, residents paid more per gallon for drinkable water than oilmen receive for petroleum.

The seven-year drought of the 50s led cities and towns to build reservoirs. The Army Corps of Engineers alone tripled the amount of water backed up behind new dams in Texas. The city water supplies for Oklahoma have been increased almost one-third by the Army engineers.

Street Closings Are Announced

The city traffic engineer's office Wednesday announced that

House Kills Attempt To Raise Education Funds

Washington (AP) — The House defeated Wednesday an attempt to increase federal spending for education by $728 million over President Nixon's budget request.

The proposal, backed by most education organizations, was turned down 181 to 187 after opponents said repeatedly that its approval would result in a presidential veto.

After adding $30 million to one program, the House then passed a bill appropriating $4.8 billion for the Office of Education, $131 million over the budget. The bill now goes to the Senate where another effort will be made to tack on the big increase.

The House defeated an attempt to remove from the bill language designed to prevent the federal government from forcing school districts to bus students.

The provision, which has been part of the law for several years, was retained when an amendment by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., to delete it was rejected, 205 to 140.

Conte said although the provision has not impeded federal efforts to achieve desegregation, it was confusing and potentially harmful.

Campus Violence

The House also kept an existing provision that requires the withdrawal of federal aid from any student or faculty member involved in campus violence.

The big fight was over the proposed increase of $728 million, which was offered as a single package by Rep. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, although it would have boosted spending for a dozen programs.

The package was put together by a coalition of education groups calling itself the Emergency Committee for Full Funding of Education, which had succeeded in pushing through big increases in each of the last two years. Both previous bills were vetoed, but Congress overrode one veto and compromised on a sizable increase in the other case.

This time, with the administration forecasting an $11.4 billion budget deficit and some members of Congress predicting it will be twice that, the arguments of those urging a stand against inflationary spending apparently had a greater impact.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the House already has voted to add $4 billion to federal expenditures through increases in Social Security benefits and armed forces pay.

Opponents of the Hathaway amendment said its adoption would inevitably lead to a veto that would delay for months the allocation of any federal funds to hard pressed school districts.

To Play Politics

"It doesn't serve the cause of education to play politics with the education needs of the country," said Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, a leader in the fight against the amendment.

Hathaway said the extra funds would still leave spending for most education programs far below the levels authorized by Congress.

The only program increased by the House was the one providing federal aid to school districts affected by federal activities. It is one of the most popular in Congress, and the Appropriations Committee had provided a $137 million increase over the budget in the bill it brought to the floor. The House boosted it another $30 million and passed the bill 354 to 7.

Grant Awarded To State Agency

A 12-month, $278,499 grant has been awarded to the Technical Assistance Agency (TAA) for the Economic Opportunity Action office of the governor.

According to Glen Soukup, TAA director, the funds will be used for continuation of present programs, except for a $96,000 family planning program to be carried out by the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

The researcher, Dr. Umberto Saffiotti of the National Cancer Institute, told a Senate subcommittee that long-term tests are now underway that should show whether saccharine risks are great enough to warrant a public warning.

He said research on mice shows their chances of developing cancer of the bladder undergo a "very marked enhancement" when saccharine pellets are inserted in their bladders just as they do when similarly infused with cyclamates.

"This we take as a strong warning signal," Saffiotti said. "The situation with saccharine is essentially the same."

But he said no firm conclusions can be drawn about whether saccharine may cause cancer until tests on feeding it to mice are completed.

Studies Show Saccharine May Resemble Cyclamates

Washington (UPI) — A government cancer researcher said Wednesday preliminary tests sound a "strong warning signal" that saccharine may have the same cancer-producing properties that prompted a ban on another artificial sweetener last year.

The researcher, Dr. Umberto Saffiotti of the National Cancer Institute, told a Senate subcommittee that long-term tests are now underway that should show whether saccharine risks are great enough to warrant a public warning.

He said research on mice shows their chances of developing cancer of the bladder undergo a "very marked enhancement" when saccharine pellets are inserted in their bladders just as they do when similarly infused with cyclamates.

"This we take as a strong warning signal," Saffiotti said. "The situation with saccharine is essentially the same."

But he said no firm conclusions can be drawn about whether saccharine may cause cancer until tests on feeding it to mice are completed.

Questions Remain Unanswered About Coverup Of My Lai

By JOHN T. WHEELER

Washington (AP) — In the public furor after Lt. William Calley's murder conviction, an often heard cry has been: "If Calley was guilty at My Lai, then what of the generals and colonels above him?"

The question is not new in warfare or in the tragic story of My Lai. Charges of attempted coverup were leveled at senior officers, not only directly above Calley but in other units, soon after news of the massacre broke more than a year ago.

After an exhaustive Army investigation, 14 officers were charged with dereliction of duty and other offenses in connection with alleged failure to report or adequately investigate the mass murder.

Koster Heads List

The list was topped by Maj. Gen. Samuel Koster, Calley's division commander who returned from Vietnam to become superintendent at West Point, a prestigious job the Army often gives to men destined for bigger things.

The prospect was for public courts-martial. But then charges of coverup against all the officers except Col. Oran K. Henderson, Calley's brigade commander, were dismissed "for lack of evidence."

However secret "administrative actions" were begun and these may cause Gen. Koster and his deputy, Brig. Gen. George H. Young, to lose a star each and may effectively ruin their military careers. Other officers, too, are under consideration for similar action, decided on in secret, for their acts after the killings at My Lai.

The Army has shut the door on possible public trials or hearings on charges of coverup and it is not certain whether the voluminous report of the Army investigation into the matter will be made public.

'Lengthy Hearings'

A House armed services subcommittee held hearings for seven months on the events at My Lai and while nearly all the evidence still is secret, the group did publish its conclusions.

Among them: Beginning the day of the shootings and running a short time beyond, word of the slayings was reported, "at least in part," to numerous senior officers. These included Calley's battalion and brigade commanders, helicopter unit commanders, the division chaplain, Koster, Young and other division staff officers.

Other reports of the massacre went through the separate U.S. intelligence pipeline and through the equally separate Army advisory network to the State Department officer who was provincial senior advisor.

Testimony On Koster

Repeated testimony showed Koster had information on the day it happened that from 20 to 28 civilians had been killed in My Lai. And when Capt. Ernest Medina, Calley's immediate superior, was ordered back into the village to investigate the deaths, as U.S. command regulations required, the order was countermanded by Saber Six. This was the radio code name for Koster, who was flying by helicopter over the operation area.

Later it was said there might have been tactical reasons for not returning to My Lai that day, but the House unit's evidence was that no one returned at all until Washington ordered an investigation a year later based on hearsay reports from an ex-GI, Ronald Ridenhour of Phoenix, Ariz.

"The most damning evidence that there was a conscious effort to suppress evidence was the disappearance of documents from the files of U.S. organizations between early 1968 and mid-1969," the House panel's report said.

One Copy Found

Of six documents the congressmen said related to the investigation, only one copy of one of the least important survived. This was a report by the brigade commander, Henderson, to Koster giving the number of civilian casualties at about 20 and saying these were due to artillery, gunships and cross-fire on the ground. Henderson is being court-martialed on charges of dereliction of duty, failure to obey lawful regulations, making false official statements and false swearing.

Officers called to testify quoted Gen. Young and another division staff officer as saying, "That's murder," when told of the My Lai details shortly after the killings. Koster was quoted by one witness as saying an oral report blaming all known deaths on artillery and helicopter fire was "unacceptable."

As further proof that senior officers knew possible war crimes had been committed, the congressmen said, officers and enlisted men in the division were "informed directly or indirectly that the My Lai operation was being investigated and therefore were instructed that they should not speculate on or discuss the matter pending completion of the investigation."

Slap At Brass

In a slap at top Army brass, the subcommittee also said: "From its inception the subcommittee's investigation has been hampered by a generally uncooperative attitude of the Department of the Army."

Commenting on the Army's switch from court-martials to secret administrative actions, Rep. Samuel Stratton, a hawkish member of the staunchly pro-military House Armed Services Committee, said, "The army now is involved in a coverup of the coverup." Stratton, a New York Democrat, was one of four members of the subcommittee that investigated My Lai.

Robert MacCrate, a Wall Street lawyer who was special counsel on the select panel which investigated My Lai for the Army, said he was "shocked" that charges against Koster were dropped. He added that the action "effectively cut off the orderly progress of inquiry up the chain of command."

Conflicting Reports

A senior aide to Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland said the Army report establishes that senior officers had lied. He said the trouble was establishing who lied about what since there was so much conflicting testimony.

Stratton called for a reinstatement of charges. But a senior Army legal expert said in nearly all cases this was impossible since the statute of limitations on such charges had run out.

Stratton says while the original "suppression" of My Lai events may have involved only officers in that region of Vietnam, the decisions to prevent embarrassing courts-martials of senior officers can be traced to top brass in the Pentagon.

Influence Denied

A spokesman for Westmoreland denied that Westmoreland had ordered or influenced Army officials who decided to drop court-martial charges. Westmoreland did, however, recommend the still-pending administrative actions against Koster and Young according to reliable Department of Defense sources.

Koster so far has declined all comment on either action. Young said he feels "like a political scapegoat" since the administrative action came about six months after the original charges were dropped.

Capt. Medina is facing murder charges. In all the ranks above his the charges involved the alleged coverup and not responsibility for the killings at My Lai. Another captain, Eugene Kotouc, faces court-martial on charges of maiming and assaulting an unidentified Vietnamese. He was assigned to interrogate suspected enemy during the My Lai assault.

'Absolutely Unexplainable'

On the alleged coverup, Westmoreland earlier told congressmen, "Well, this is absolutely unexplainable to me."

Stratton believes it must be explained, publicly. "I support the Army," he said in an interview. "If I am a hawk, I am an honest hawk. The army has to have the public confidence that the truth about My Lai, all the truth, has come out. "It has not."

Indiscriminate Air Killings Alleged

Washington (AP) — A former member of an American advisory team in Vietnam says indiscriminate firing by U.S. aircraft killed many South Vietnamese civilians.

Jeffery Record says the shootings occurred during twice-weekly "phantom strikes" by Cobra gunship helicopters in Bac Lieu province while he was there in 1968-69.

"I have been told the program is still executed in Bac Lieu," he wrote in an article in the current issue of "The Washington Monthly."

"What had started out as a program to hamper Viet Cong military operations had become an unmanageable and monstrous terror directed against the entire rural population," he said.

Asked by a newsman why his article was being published so long after the incidents he described, Record said it had been kicking around and "I mentioned it in several Moratorium Committee speeches."

He said he reported the situation to his then province senior adviser but had not made a report to the Pentagon since his return.

A Pentagon spokesman, also a Vietnam veteran, said he had not read Record's story "but there are very strenuous safeguards against indiscriminate firing; they are spelled out and understood to be used."

3 Congressmen Ask War Be Declared Illegal

Washington (AP)—Three anti-war congressmen Wednesday asked the U.S. District Court here to declare the Vietnamese war illegal and to order it stopped in 60 days unless Congress approves it.

Since the Constitution gives Congress the right to declare war, they said, the Nixon administration and the Johnson administration before it violated their right as congressmen to decide whether the nation should fight.

It is the first time members of Congress have sought such a court test. The Supreme Court has consistently refused to hear other suits against the war.

Last year it refused a direct test of a Massachusetts law against sending state residents to fight undeclared wars. That case now is working its way up through lower courts.

"This is something we hope will not be just another futile gesture," said Rev. Michael Harrington, D-Mass. The suit was filed by Harrington and Reps. Warren J. Mitchell, D-Md., and Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y.

Lawrence R. Velvel, one of five young attorneys who drew up the suit, said recent legal trends make it likely the courts will consider the suit.

The question of whether congressmen are being denied a right to decide on the war is not political but legal, he said. Courts refuse to hear cases they consider political.

Velvel said a ruling could be expected under normal circumstances in three or four months, but he said attempts would be made to speed up the process.

Puppets Relax Young Patients

Baltimore (UPI) — Hand puppets have joined the surgical staff at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Puppets dressed as a doctor and a nurse perform three nights a week in the children's center for youngsters scheduled for surgery the next day.

Doctors say the performances make a child less afraid of what is about to happen to him and make him more comfortable in the hospital environment.

25 Years For Sharpe

To some persons, the 25th year represents a silver date, but to Tony Sharpe his 25th year is just another baseball season.

"No, I don't look at it (the current season) as a milestone," says the Nebraska baseball coach. "It's just another year of trying to win ball games and we certainly have our work cut out for us. I just haven't given it (25 years) any thought."

Sharpe has compiled a 288-253 record including a 202-190 Big Eight Conference slate with two league titles and six runner-up teams. And those records were achieved as Sharpe continues to hold the distinction of being NU's first and only full-time baseball coach.

"Harry Good (retired veteran NU basketball and golf coach) was my baseball and basketball coach at Indiana Central College," Sharpe relates. "He took the NU basketball job in 1946 and the next year he asked me to be his assistant."

Sharpe remained in the basketball aide's position post for 17 years, until 1963 when he left the reigns of the boom-bouncy game to concentrate entirely on baseball. But, no other coach in Cornhusker history can claim the honor of receiving the first full-time coaching assignment in baseball.

During the past quarter-century, attendance at most college sporting events has skyrocketed with football leading the way. That rise in spectator interest is also reflected in baseball, Sharpe says.

More Fans For Baseball

"There's definitely been more fan interest in the last five or six years," he says. "Last year we had real good crowds. I think part of the reason is the increased enrollment in colleges today and also that the colleges are promoting the game better."

Other factors he attributes to the hike in attendance is the College World Series annually held in Omaha for the eight top teams in the country and major league baseball cooperating with college baseball by refraining from signing college players en masse before they are graduated.

"Throughout the country, minor league baseball is dying and many people are turning to the college game," he adds.

While NU had trouble last week at Houston, dropping three one-run games and two by two runs in falling to 2-6, Sharpe is optimistic about the Big Eight season. NU opens with a doubleheader against Colorado at Boulder Friday and a single game against the Buffs Saturday before opening the home season with a 1:30 p.m. doubleheader against non-loop foe South Dakota State Monday.

"We had a little trouble with our pitchers at Houston," he says. "But once we get warm weather, we'll be all right."

Pinpointing Oklahoma (9-3 against non-league foes) as the team to beat in the conference scramble, Sharpe also labels defending champion Iowa State as capable of toppling the Sooners for the top slot. The Cyclones only lost three players from their 1970 squad which qualified for a berth in the College World Series last June in Omaha.

Another first for Big Eight baseballers this year is that rained-out games can be played on Sundays. If a league match is halted by the falling liquid on Friday or Saturday, Sunday can be used to play the tilts, Sharpe adds. "We'll have our first true champion this year."

Playoffs Help Crowds

Don't try telling the Omaha Knights that the hockey playoffs don't increase attendance.

The Knights averaged 4,300 at Ak-Sar-Ben while walking away with the Central Hockey League regular season title. In the semifinal series against Oklahoma City, the Omahans attracted an average of 5,500 for three back-to-back tilts against the Blazers.

The first game in the finals against Dallas drew a 6,000 sellout and Knights' business manager Curt Gordon estimates that 8,000 tickets could have been sold for the first Dallas match had seating permitted.

"We've had more groups from Lincoln and the surrounding area than ever before," Gordon says. "Lincoln sends big crowds up here especially on Saturday nights."

An estimated 400 persons greeted the Knights last week at Eppley Airfield upon their arrival from Oklahoma City where the Omahans took two games to win the semifinal series in five games.

"Crowds are contagious at hockey games," Gordon (no relation) adds. "When the official league attendances are announced we might even have broken the all-time league record (set by Oklahoma City in the 1965-66 season with 175,000)."

Angler Buchanan Longs For 'The Good Old Days'

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

John Buchanan lifted his rod and sighted along the slender, whip-like pole and sighed. "You've got too many fishermen now-a-days, it's getting so a body has to put in a reservation to get any fishing at all."

He laid down the rod and picked a reel up. "Back in the thirties and forties we didn't have that problem. But then the waters were clearer than they are now. The fish were better catches and a guy could really have a lot of fun."

"The big action was usually on worms and minnows then. Now they've got so many types of lures that a body needs to carry around a little book telling him when to use what and where." He wiped a small spot of grease off the gleaming stainless body of the reel and set it down. "But some of the innovations can be fun if you use them right."

Buchanan, winner of several fishing derbies and holder of numerous Sports Afield fishing awards along with Nebraska Master Anglers, said the fishing in Nebraska was just as good as any other state he had tried.

"And I've tried most of them over the years," he said with a reminiscent gleam in his eye. "Nebraska offers just about every type of angling you want — trout, catfish, bass, panfish — they're all here. And it's more pleasant fishing in Nebraska than anywhere else, too. The lakes are cleaner and clearer and the trout streams are really in excellent shape."

Buchanan bent over and picked up his tackle box and began sorting through the assortment of lures in it. "This is the time of year I like best," he offered. "The fish are really anxious to please in the early spring when the ice breaks. If you've got a boat and can reach the really good holes out in the middle of the lakes you're really in for a treat."

Despite his definite leanings toward bait, Buchanan holds a vast knowledge of artificial lures and the techniques needed to make them work properly.

"This little jewel here can really do the job," he said while holding a Darddevil with rusted hooks. "It still is one of the most potent lures around. Those Mepp spinners can give a guy a little fun, too."

"It all depends on what you're going after and what the fish are in the mood for," he mused. "I think I've probably tried them all and had luck with all of them also. That's what the problem is with lures — you need so damn many of them while almost every fish will take a worm or minnow."

He dropped a fistfull of lures back into his tackle box and snapped the lid closed. "Every year, the fish want something different at the start of the season. I'll tell you what's in this year after my first trip."

JACK SAYS HE'S 'READY' ... Nicklaus After Second Title In Bid For Grand Slam

Augusta, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the awesome Golden Bear who is gunning for a never-accomplished professional grand slam of golf, ranked as a heavy favorite Wednesday on the eve of the 35th Masters championship.

His fellow members of the Big Three that dominated the game in the mid 1960's—Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player — appeared to be the chief challengers to Nicklaus' bid for a fourth Masters title.

"I'm ready," was the terse comment of the 31-year-old Nicklaus Wednesday as he put the finishing touches on his preparations for the tournament that ranks as one of the world's four major tests of golfing greatness.

Nicklaus is the only man in history to win them all twice. No one ever has taken the PGA, the Masters and the U.S. and British Opens in a single year. That's his goal.

Nicklaus, a trim 190-pounder with a mod-length blond mane, captured the PGA title in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., earlier this year and admitted at the time:

"It's no secret I'd like to win 'em all."

And he has planned his preparations carefully. He's played in only five tournaments this year, studiously attempting to bring his overpowering game to a peak for the big ones.

This is the second leg and he has been in Augusta for almost a week honing his considerable skills on the 6,980 yard, par 72 Augusta National Golf Club course.

For the first time in several years, the 41-year-old Palmer, the game's greatest gate attraction and holder of a record four Masters championships, ranks as a serious rather than sentimental contender.

He snapped out of a lengthy victory drought early this year, has played a heavier schedule than he has in recent seasons, won two tournaments and is the season's leading money winner with almost $100,000.

"I'm playing reasonably well," the game's most dynamic performer said.

"You always manage to get up for the big ones. I haven't won a major title since 1964. That's on my mind."

"I've worked very, very hard on my game this year and it seems to be coming along. Now, it's just a matter of trying to keep everything together, to keep it where I want and hope it to be."

Player, the 1961 Masters champ, won two consecutive tour events a few weeks ago and is averaging more than $11,000 a week in earnings on his current American swing.

"I'm playing absolutely the best golf of my life," said Player, a tough little physical fitness taddler who adheres to a daily regimen of road work and calisthenics. "I'm playing as well as I'm capable. I would like to be putting a little better, however."

Some other standouts in the elite field of 77 of the world's best shot-makers include defending champion Billy Casper and the man he beat in a playoff last year, Gene Littler, U.S. open champion Tony Jacklin of England and veteran Miller Barber, second only to Palmer on the money-winning list.

And, too, there's aging Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina, the hard-luck guy who signed away chance for a title in the 1969 championship, 58-year-old Sam Snead, national seniors champion Julius Boros and erratic Tom Shaw, winner of two tour titles this season.

There are nine amateurs, including national champion Lanny Wadkins and Canadian Gary Cowan. There are 14 foreign professionals, including a couple of vest-pocket orientals, Sukree Onsham of Thailand and Takaaki Kono of Japan.

The famed course has suffered from a late spring. It has been drenched by heavy rains for almost a week. Daytime temperatures in the chilly 40s have not been unusual for practice rounds.

"A lack of cooperation by the weatherman and the late spring has contributed to less perfect conditions than we would like," admitted Clifford Roberts, the tournament chairman.

As usual however, the tournament has been a sellout for months. Crowds of 20,000-30,000 are expected all four days.

The final two rounds will be telecast nationally by CBS-TV, 4-5 p.m. CST Saturday and 3-4:30 p.m. CST Sunday.

—KINNEY ADMITS HE MISSES SEEING ORDUNA THERE—

Jeff All Alone At I-Back Now

"Some of the I-backs looked good at times, but I certainly didn't see any other Jeff Kinneys out there."

The speaker was Nebraska's Bob Devaney, football coach of the defending national champions, following the first heavy scrimmage of spring practice.

Kinney, of course, is the Cornhuskers' great I-back, who stands really alone for the first time since donning the No. 35 as a sophomore in 1969. He headed into that season as a slotback candidate, a promising soph but overshadowed by the incomparable Joe Orduna.

Orduna then became injured and Kinney shifted to I-back, a move that brought him Soph of the Year honors and pass-catching records, in addition to the rushing leadership of the Big Eight and Sun Bowl champions.

Kinney might have starred on any other team in the nation last year, and he was a standout for the Huskers, but Orduna returned and the dandy duo split time. With both Joe and Jeff, Nebraska presented a murderous assault as the Huskers chalked up a 11-0-1 record, an Orange Bowl victory and the No. 1 ranking in college football.

With spring practice underway, Kinney has continued to display his trademarks: rugged, blasting power, speed to get outside, great hands and moves which make him an outstanding pass receiver.

Devaney doesn't mince words about Kinney, and he's quick to admit his star I-back is the yardstick by which he'll measure other spring aspirants.

"Jeff Kinney is the finest I-back in the country, bar none," Devaney said. "He can do everything and do it better than anyone else. We almost played him at quarterback against Southern Cal last year when Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson were hurt—and Jeff would have done a good job with one day's practice. If we'd ask him to play left guard, he'd probably make all-Big Eight. He's got ability and a great attitude."

Kinney, by the way, admits to feeling a new sense of aloneness at the top.

"You know, I was aware Joe (Orduna) was around in 1969, and I know I was compared to him, and last year we split the time," Jeff grinned. "I get kidded a lot about how I'll be looking around for Joe next fall, and I may be sometimes—he was a great back to have on our side."

Kinney admits to relishing the idea of standing alone at the top of the I-back heap, but he can be very realistic, too.

"Sure, I would like to play all the time," he said. "I really felt good at the end of last season, a lot stronger. But at the same time it makes us a better team if we have several good players at every position."

"I hope some other guys pick up the experience—it does take time," Jeff continued. "If I get hurt, we want someone good in there."

A team player throughout his Cornhusker career, Kinney can be seen helping upcoming backs get some experience on the practice field. JC transfer Gary Dixon lined up in the wrong place and Kinney went over and visited with him to help him get straightened out.

"Randy Butts, Don Westbrook and Gary Dixon — Gary, of course, needs to learn our system—are all doing a good job and all three can play," Jeff observed. "They're all good backs who can help us next fall."

Kinney doesn't list a preference between running with the ball or operating as a receiver.

"Both are fun," he said. "Last year we had a lot of good receivers, so we didn't throw to the I-back as much as the year before. That's okay with me—I don't care who runs or catches, just so we keep winning."

How about the 1971 Cornhusker team? Kinney feels attitude will play a big part in Nebraska's national championship defense.

"We'll have a fine team, physically, so attitude will have to really be important, and I think our attitude is good. All the guys seemed anxious to start spring ball—and that's a good sign."

"I know for the first time I was anxious for spring ball to get going," Jeff confided, adding with a grin: "Maybe I was just nervous expecting Joe Orduna to show up—yeah, I'll miss Joe, and so will the team, but we'll go after people just the same."

—12 STRAIGHT REGULAR SEASON WINS—

McNally Hurls Orioles By Senators

By Associated Press

The world champion Baltimore Orioles opened their season Wednesday and took up where they left off in 1970.

They beat Washington 3-2 and made it 12 in a row in regular season games. They had won their last 11 ending the 1970 campaign.

Southpaw Dave McNally, a 24-game winner for Baltimore last season, fell behind 2-0 in the third, but gained the victory as the Orioles rallied.

They tied the score in the fourth and won in the fifth on Frank Robinson's double. The two-bagger scored Dave Johnson who had singled and moved to third on another single by Boog Powell.

Harmon Killebrew hit a first inning two-run homer, No. 488 for his career, and Bert Blyleven pitched a four-hit shutout to lead Minnesota over Milwaukee 4-0.

St. Louis walloped the Chicago Cubs 14-3 as Jose Cardenal and Joe Hagie each drove in four runs. Southpaw Steve Carlton, a 19-game loser in 1970, blanked the Cubs on three hits until Joe Pepitone homered in the seventh.

A consolation daily double of $5.40 was paid when Celestial Torch was scratched just before post time of the second race.

Hometowners Sparkle At Red Grovert Relays

... FAIRBURY TEAMS CAPTURE TITLES

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Fairbury — It was pretty much a hometown show here Wednesday when 1,200 athletes gathered for the third annual running of the combined high school-junior college Red Grovert track relays.

Fairbury High grabbed the Class B prep title and Fairbury Junior College pulled away from a nine-team field in the final two events to claim the JC championships.

Wymore Southern and Exeter shared the spotlight with Fairbury in the crowded 28-team high school division. Though the preppers competed in an open field, the Class C and D squads scoring the most points were also awarded trophies.

Southern, third among the high schools behind runnerup Exeter, garnered the most points for a Class C entry, while Exeter, tenth overall, was the biggest point-producer among the small schools entered.

Despite gusty winds which blew in the face of the runners down the straightaway, 12 records fell during the day-long meet.

A Red Cloud quartet toppled the sprint medley relay mark and Southern established a new shuttle hurdle standard. Three individual high school records also fell. Sterling's Bob Albright won 12-6 in the pole vault for one, Wes Cassens of Hardy notched another by spinning the discus 147-3, while Hebron's Mike O'Brien claimed the third with a 40-11 effort in the triple jump.

Fairbury High jumped out to an early lead in the high school team scoring and was never headed, but the town's junior college needed victories in the closing two events — the sprint medley and mile relays — to outscore Cloud County, Kan., and Worthington, Minn., which ended in a tie for second.

More Sports, Page 36

Seven junior college records fell. The most spectacular was saved for last. In the day's final race, a Fairbury quartet clipped a full four seconds off the mile relay mark while nipping Cloud County at the wire.

N.Y. Bowler Approaches Money Mark

Akron, Ohio — With the season not yet half over, Johnny Petraglia, Brooklyn, N.Y., is within an eyelash of setting an all-time one-year earnings record for a professional bowler.

Petraglia's fourth win of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) 1971 tour was registered in Akron Saturday (April 3) and gave him a $25,000 first prize in the rich $100,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions.

The big prize upped his official winnings for the year to $66,153, barely $1,200 short of the $67,375 won by Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill., in 1967. Petraglia won the $80,000 Winston-Salem Classic in February and came back with victories in the Fair Lanes Open at Washington, D.C., ($7,000) and the Don Carter Classic ($7,500) in New Orleans. His Firestone victory marked the first time since 1961 that any bowler has won three straight PBA tournaments. Dick Weber, St. Louis, Mo., did it then.
